Baby Saved as Mother Dies

A Caesarian birth delivered baby Dorothy Wilkes, 6½ pounds, a few hours before her mother, Mrs. Dorothy Wilkes of West Barrington, R. I., died in Charles V. Chapin Hospital, Providence, R. I. The mother, a victim of infantile paralysis, failed to rally after the operation. The baby, held by Nurse Shirley Gardiner of Faulkner Hospital, an "exchange nurse" at the Providence institution, is reported "in good condition."

Soviet Stand On Jap Peace Widens Split

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—A new split between the United States and Russia—this time over drafting a Japanese peace treaty—threatened today to destroy what little unity remains between the great powers.

Another prospect is that it may delay indefinitely work on a peace settlement for Japan.

Up to this week there had been considerable hope here that Washington and Moscow would be able to devise some means for fashioning the Japanese treaty which would eliminate many of the frictions that have beset peace making in Europe.

Russia's rejection yesterday of American proposals along this line greatly dimmed, if it did not kill off, these hopes.

Some officials said the major question now facing the American and other governments interested in early progress on the Far East peace settlement is whether they should go ahead with a "separate peace"—that is, a treaty without Russia.

But there is a question whether this could be done legally.

While an interpretation remains to be worked out, some authorities recalled that as early as the United Nations Declaration of January, 1942, the United States, Britain, Russia and other major nations at war with the Axis pledged themselves "not to make a separate armistice or peace with the enemies."

Russia was not then at war with Japan, so it is a question whether the pledge would be considered leagally binding

The Soviet reaction to American proposals for beginning work on a Japanese treaty Aug. 19 was announced yesterday by the Moscow radio.

The United States had proposed July 11 that 11 nations, including the great powers, should meet at Washington or San Francisco to organize the treaty drafting. A major point of the proposal was that the nations work under a system of decisions by two-thirds vote—a procedure which would deny any one nation the right of veto.

This marked a radical departure from the German and other European treaty making procedures is. two respects. It included nations other than the great powers and it denied the veto privilege.

In rejecting the proposal, the Soviets did not comment specifically on these two points. Instead, they contended:

1—That the Japanese peace treaty, like the European treaties, should be worked out in the first instance by the Foreign Ministers Council of the great powers of the Far East—America, Britain, China and Russia. (The great powers in Europe are the Big Three plus France).

This procedure would restore the veto because under the council's operation unanimity is required on all decisions.

2—That the United States acted "unilaterally" by initiating proposals for a Japanese peace conference without going through council of Foreign Minister channels.

Dutch Drive On Indonesian Capital Halted

BATAVIA, July 24 (AP)—Indonesian Republicans declared today they had turned back a strong Dutch threat against their capital of Jogjakarta and stemmed a determined Dutch drive on Malang, Republican stronghold in east central Java.

The Indonesian news agency Antara reported on the east central front Republican troops occupied Modjokerto this afternoon. The Dutch held an area around Scerabaja extending as far as Modjokerto. Denying their drive on Jogjakarta had been halted, the Dutch announced capture of Cheribon, important Java port.

Dutch marines, the communique said, have sheared off a 2400-square-mile segment of east Java, over-running the Bondowoso area, richest rice supply area on the island.

Antara said Indonesians had whipped behind a Dutch spearhead at Salatiga, north of Jogjakarta, and forced the armor-supported Dutch to abandon the burning town.

Lt.-Gen. Siem B. Spoor, commanding the Dutch campaign, said Indonesians for the most part were in flight. He denied the Indonesians had retaken Salatiga.

Spoor confirmed reports Dutch troops from Palembang in southern Sumatra had captured the Shell and Standard-Vacuum oil fields 60 miles west of there.

The general reported the operation around Padang in West Central Sumatra completed.

Two Women Found Slain in Maryland

BALTIMORE, Yuly 24—Police today sought the murderers of two women, one found unclad in a log cabin 30 yards behind her home in Tall Timbers, and the other also nude, discovered in Baltimore's lower harbor trussed in a weighted tarpaulin.

Mrs. Julia Katona, 35, Tall Timbers, mother of 8-year-old twins, was strangled to death, according to a medical examiner. She was found in a grotesque position on the floor of the cabin by her husband, Navy Lt. Frank Katona, 37, who had just come off a 24-hour tour of duty at Patuxent Naval Air Station.

The second body, said to be a "very pretty 32-year-old woman," was unidentified. A medical examiner's report said she had been in the water two to eight weeks.

Police believed she had been beaten into unconsciousness and thrown into the water while still alive. The body was bound with baling wire and weighted down with almost 100 pounds of pig iron and lead pipe. The tarpaulin which wrapped her was bound with rope tied with sailor's knots.

Medical examiners had not yet determined whether either woman had been criminally attacked.

Lt. Katona began search for his wife after she was met at the village store by his son, Barry, 8, who said neither he nor his twin sister, Bonnie Joy, had seen their mother all day.

He said he had called his wife from the air base at 10 p. m. Tuesday, some seven hours before she was strangled, and she had told him she was playing cards with four neighbors. The Katonas live in a one-story cottage n a lonely trail that meanders through Tall Timbers.

Mrs. Katona, the former Julia Waska of New York, was at one time traffic engineer for the National Broadcasting Co. Katona is a native of South Norwalk, Ct.

Mission Ship Off Sunday to Pacific

Church, state and Navy representatives will dedicate the 29-ton missionary schooer Morning Star VI, which sails from Boston Sunday afternoon on a 90-year-old route of its five predecessors to the Marshall and Caroline Islands.

Taking part in ceremonies at Lewis wharf will be Lt. Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge, Pacific Fleet Navy Chaplain Capt. Thornton C. Miller, and Dr. Fred Field Goodsell, executive vice-president of the American board of foreign missions.

Dr. Frank K. Singiser, executive secretary of the Massachusetts Bible Society, will present a supply of Bibles in both English and the Marshallese language.

These will be taken to the Micronesian Islands for use of natives, whose ancestors first met the "Boston Christians" in 1856. Libertated from the Japanese, they asked the Navy for the missionaries' return.

Red Stand Spurs U. S. Atom Tests

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—A world unable to agree on international control of atomic bombs was put on notice by the United States today that:

1—It intends to conduct more tests of atomic weapons in the Pacific.

2—Top military officers in the field of nuclear fission now head a joint Army-Navy agency devoted to "development of atomic weapons of all types."

3—"We mean to maintain and increase the pre-eminence of the United States in atomic weapons until acceptable international agreements" are reached and control machinery established.

A report of the Atomic Energy Commission to Congress contained the terse announcement of further experiments and the implied acceptance of any challenge to a world atomic armament race.

(Russia and the United States made plain again yesterday at a New York session of the United Nations' atomic energy commission their diametrically opposed views on the subject of big powers veto rights over international atomic control questions.)

The commission's announcement of more tests was made in this single sentence:

"The Atomic Energy Commission is establishing proving grounds in the Pacific for routine experiments and tests of atomic weapons."

Smith College Girl, N.H. Heiress, Missing

By DONALD MacPHAIL

HOLDERNESS, N. H., July 24—Vanishing from her swank summer home here without a trace, Anne Straw, 20, beautiful heiress and a Smith College student, was the object of an intense but quietly conducted search today.

DOUBLE TROUBLE—Ill fortune continues to beset Maureen O'Hara, screen star, during her present assignment. A segment of cornhusk blew into her eye, scratching the iris. Then a camera crane ran over her instep. She was sidelined after the second accident.

The girl, daughter of H. Ellis Straw of Manchester, a banker and one of the most influential men in the State, left the big summer lodge on the shores of Little Squam lake after the family retired about 10 p. m. Sunday.

For two days the parents conducted their own search with the aid of friends and neighbors here and in Manchester, but when their efforts failed to turn up a clue to the girl's disappearance a report was made to New Hampshire State Police.

Police said the missing girl was 5 ft. 6 in. tall, and weighed 160 pounds. She had green eyes, fair complexion, and honey-colored hair.

Police admitted they have been asked not to disclose any details of their search efforts, and the family declined to answer some questions on the ground they preferred that the daughter's absence be not publicized widely.

The girl spent Sunday evening with her parents and an aunt, Miss Ruth Higgins of Manchester. Ann and her aunt were due to depart Monday for a motor trip to Jasper National Park in the Canadian Rockies and the impending tour was the principal topic of conversation.

The group retired about 10 p. m. and rose the next morning about 7. It was then that Anne's absence was first noticed.

A flashlight from her room was found lying on a rock at the water's edge and several yards from the house. It was advanced as the first theory the girl might have gone for a night swim in the lake alone and drowned.

However, her parents admitted today that Anne's bathing suit and cap were found in her closet.

Checking the drowning theory, State Police Sgt. Stewart Currier directed that dragging operations be conducted in waters surrounding the Straw home. Grappling irons made little progress, however, on the rock-strewn bottom and it was decided to summon a diver if the drowning theory is accepted as a likelihood.

Police said it was not unlikely that she would go for a swim in her pajamas, two-piece, pink, summer-style set with a sleeveless top and shorts. This was the only clothing missing from her room.

The parents issued a statement today describing their daughter as "very athletic, clean cut and not the type who would go away without informing us.

"She is not the type who would practice deception," they told a reporter. "She has no romantic interest, her principal fondness being for activities at Smith College. We could not want a finer or better daughter."

Both parents declined to tell whether their daughter's bed had been slept in Sunday night. They explain their reticence on this and other details by saying they did not seek publicity at this time.

Sgt. Currier said a conference will be held later today attended by the parents at which it will be decided whether a nation-wide search would be desirable.

Such a search would be reminiscent of the efforts made last December to locate Paula Welden, the blond student at Bennington College who walked off the campus on Dec. 1 and has not been seen since.

The drowning theory, only tentative explanation offered this far, was largely discounted by stories of the girl's prowess as a swimmer. It was thought possible, however, that she could have dived from the shore and struck a rock.

Anne completed her junior year at Smith College last spring and was reported anxious to return this fall to resume her studies and take part in athletics, of which she was very fond.

None of the three family cars parked in the garage adjoining the lodge was missing and the location of the cottage, far from highways or railroad tracks, made it appear unlikely a person would hike away in the darkness.

The girl's father is president of the Amoskeag National Bank, and the family home is in Union st., Manchester. He and other members of the family have long held positions of importance in the Amoskeag Mills. The Straw family is well known and highly respected throughout New Hampshire.

Ex-Harvard Dean Kills Self On N. H. Estate

On the first anniversary of his mother's death, Lawrence Shaw Mayo, 59, of Newton, former associate dean of the graduate school of arts and sciences at Harvard, shot and killed himself.

His body was found yesterday on the estate of John Wentworth, last Royalist Governor of the State of New Hampshire, in Wolfeboro, N. H., now the Mayo summer home, an antique revolver clutched in his right hand.

Two farewell notes were left by the noted historian, their contents known only to police and members of his family.

Dr. Francis Dube, Carroll medical examiner, gave a verdict of suicide. There was a bullet wound in his temple and powder burns around the wound, he said.

Sgt. Ernest Swift of the New Hampshire State Police said the body was found by Mrs. Mayo outside the garage of the Mayo summer home.

The medical examiner and police ordered the two notes left by the educator to be turned over to the family. Sgt. Swift refused to disclose the contents of the notes and would not say to whom they were addressed.

Mrs. Helen Isadore Merrill Mayo, the former Harvard University officer's mother, died just a year ago at the age of 85, Sgt. Swift said.

The mother formerly made her home with her son in Chestnut st., West Newton.

Expectant Mother Faces WAC Charges as AWOL

Mrs. Carroll Crosbie, 25-year-old Worcester brunette, who deserted the WAC in 1945 for love of "the boy back home," was under guard at Murphy General Hospital, Waltham, today, because the one woman she trusted with her secret confided it to Worcester police after a quarrel.

The boy back home wasn't in the offing. The romance that had moved her to go AWOL from the Des Moines, Ia., WAC camp and rush into marriage with him hadn't fulfilled its promise. She had divorced him. And she was in the hosiptal because, in addition to being an AWOL prisoner, she was also an expectant mother by her second husband, Thomas Crosbie.

Worcester police took her from Crosbie yesterday in their Irving st. home after the woman tipster vented her rancor to the authorities. Then, after 11 hours of deliberation by police and Army officials on the procedure requisite to placing an expectant mother under arrest, a WAC lieutenant and a military police lieutenant took over custory and removed her to Murphy Hospital.

It was considered unlikely, according to unofficial Army comment, that Mrs. Crosbie would be courtmartialed. Previous cases of comparable nature have been disposed of by a dishonorable discharge, one officer said.

Army spokesmen said the Worcester woman probably will be transported today to the WAC headquarters in New York.

When Worcester detectives confronted her yesterday in the presence of her husband she did not beg for time.

The girl said only, "I will go with you. Please let me pack some things," the officers said.

Her husband accompanied her to police headquarters where he embraced her and promised, "I'll wait for you. I will be seeing you later on," according to the inspectors.

CAVE MAN STUFF

PITTSBURGH, July 24 (AP)—Testimony from a wife that her husband believed spouses should be beaten three times a day on principle helped win a divorce today for Mrs. Agnes Vukson, 27, of nearby McKees Rocks.

She told the court her husband "would take a poke at me any time he wanted," and added: "His father always told him a woman should be beat up once for breakfast, once for dinner and once before she went to bed."

Expect Bradford to Name Spalding as Chief Justice

Justice John V. Spalding of Newton, who was a Saltonstall appointee to the Supreme Judicial Court in 1944, was one of those in the forefront of conjecture today as a successor to Chief Justice Fred T. Field of the Supreme Judicial Court, who resigned at the 70-year retirement age.

Gov. Bradford was scheduled to name the new chief justice at a meeting with his executive council at Camp Edwards this afternoon.

Other justices have figured in speculation as to Field's successor, notably Justice Raymond S. Wilkins, former law partner of Sen. Saltonstall and Justice Stanley E. Qua.

However, it was emphasized at the courthouse today that Justice Spalding has been interviewing prospective law clerks for members of the high bench, a responsibility which is carried by the chief justice.

Justice Spalding was elevated to the Supreme Court after two years on the superior court, to which he was also appointed by the then Gov. Saltonstall to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Judge Joseph A. Sheehan of Boston.

The Newton jurist is 50, a graduate of Harvard and Harvard Law School, a veteran of World War I, in which he served as a second lieutenant, and a former assistant U. S. attorney. He has lectured extensively on constitutional law. Prior to becoming a member of the superior court bench he served in the executive council under Saltonstall.

With regard to the vacancy among associate justices which will be caused by the appointment of one to the head of the bench, speculation has raised the names of Superior Court Judge Charles O. Cabot of Dover and his colleauge of the same bench, Judge Felix Forte.

The resigned Chief Justice Field, known as one of the most democratic and capable jurists to function in that post, came here from his Duxbury summer home yesterday to collect personal effects in his office.

He meticulously recognized his status as a private citizen by going to and from his office in the public elevators, instead of using the private elevator reserved exclusively for members of the supreme and superior courts.

Retiring Justice Field, in his letter to Bradford, said he was resigning because he had reached the retirement age of 70. As chief justice he receives $18,.00 annually and will receive three-quarters in retirement.

His resignation was accepted "with deep regret" by Gov. Bradford who praised him for his years of service on the court. "During your tenure as chief justice the court has ably maintained its pre-eminence among the courts throughout the country," the Governor wrote.

Nab Bandit Suspect in Cop Killing

Somerville police today arrested a 25-year-old resident of that city and held him on suspicion of the murder of Patrolman Michael Dowd, who was shot to death last June 13.

The suspect was nabbed shortly after he had held up a crowded Cambridge cafe and escaped with more than $100.

On his person when he was arrested was a 32-caliber revolver, the same type that was used in the Dowd shooting.

State police immediately sent the pistol to ballistic headquarters where a thorough examination will be made to determine if that was the gun used in the slaying.

Dowd was shot by a gunman in an alley next to a Somerville liquor store and died a few days later.

The holdup, in which the six foot man was involved, took place around midnight in a cafe on Massachusetts ave., North Cambridge. The bartender, John J. Foley, 47, of Madison ave., Cambridge, told police the man stood at one end of the bar and after ordering a drink, produced the gun, which he shielded with a newspaper.

The gunman then directed, "Give me the cash. I want all of it."

Foley said he cleaned out the cash register delivering a sum he estimated at more than $100, while about 50 patrons remained unaware that a holdup was taking place.

After Foley notified police they surrounded the area and arrested the gunman at Teele sq.

Somerville police said that the suspect lived but a short distance from the scene of the Dowd shooting. He told police that he had worked in Connecticut and did not return to Somerville until June 12, which was the day after the shooting.

New Parking Plan To Get Boston Trial

One-side-of-the-street parking will be tried to relieve traffic congestion by Boston and 11 surrounding communities. Trial of the plan on the principal streets of the cities and towns that have agreed to the plan will go into effect Oct. 1.

The test will be for 60 days, taking in October and November, which are said to be the months having the highest accident rate.

The Massachusetts Safety Council is sponsor of the plan.

Streets in the cities and towns taking part will be freed of traffic on the inbound side going towards Boston in the morning and outbound side leaving Boston in the evening.

Police heads will enforce the ban during the time of its operation and if it proves effective the Massachusetts Safety Council will seek authority from the State Legislature to make it permanent.

Arlington, Brookline, Cambridge, Chelsea, Everett, Malden, Medford, Melrose, Revere, Somerville and Watertown will join with Boston in the test.

Massachusetts Safety Council officials state that they believe it will speed up traffic and decrease accidents.

Streets to be closed on one side in Boston are Boylston, Cambridge, Columbus ave., Dorchester ave., Harrison ave., Huntington ave., Massachusetts ave., North Washington and Tremont — from Stuart st. south — and Washington st.

If the plan works, it will eliminate many proposed street widening plans.

Gunmen Duel British Troops In Palestine

JERUSALEM, July 24 (AP)—Gunmen and British troops exchanged fire today at the gate of a security zone in Jerusalem.

Weirs of 1700 B. C. Show Indians Fished in Back Bay

Indians were fishing beneath the present foundations of some of Boston's largest business buildings 1700 years B. C., in the opinion of Frederick Johnson, curator of the Peabody Foundation for Archeology at Phillips Academy, Andover.

Johnson told the Assocated Press today he based his opinion on remants of fish weirs discovered in excavation for the ney John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. building, similar to others found in excavating for the New England Mutual building, both in the Back Bay.

Stakes and bushes used in constructing the weirs now are being analyzed, Johnson said. Among them have been identified oak, maple, beech trees and sweet pepper bushes, and Johnson says they are the oldest evidence of occupancy of the country east of the Mississippi. The wood is in a "very murious condition" and not petrified, Johnson said, the ends ends obviously pointed with stone implements.

He said there was evidence a Brook once ran through the area at a time when the sea level was about 12 feet lower than at present.

Blonde Swimmer Tells How Hughes Feted Big Names

Special to the Boston Evening American

HOLLYWOOD, July 24—Intimate, hitherto secret details of the costly champagne and orchid parties given during the height of the war by Howard Hughes for Elliott Roosevelt, Interior Sec. J. A. Krug and senators and congressmen were revealed today.

The disclosures came from Judy Cook, 25, platinum blonde actress and professional swimmer.

She is one of the glamorous Hollywood figures subpoenaed by the Senate War Investigating Committee, which will open hearings in Washington, Aug. 4.

The committee is conducting an intensive inquiry into all the circumstances surrounding government expenditure of approximately $40,000,000 on wartime aviation contracts awarded Hughes.

And the investigators are deeply interested in what happened at the lavish parties given by Hughes with the aid of his right-hand man, Johnny Meyer, in Hollywood's swankiest night spots as well as Palm Springs.

As for Miss Cook, who frankly assumed that "naturally, I thought there'd be a little lobbying going on," she related:

"I was working at Vega as a riveter about three years ago.

"One day, the 'Aircraftsman,' a trade paper, ran a picture of me in a bathing suit. It was an excellent picture.

"Along with it there was a cute feature story, telling how I was a 'riveter by night and an actress by day.'

"The next thing I knew I was sitting in a drug store a few days later when Johnny Meyer contacted me 'about my career.'

"Johnny said Mr. Hughes would do something for my career. He said Mr. Hughes had seen my bathing suit picture in the 'Aircraftsman.'

"Johnny said Mr. Hughes would like to me me. Well! Any girl would like to meet Mr Hughes.

"So I agree. Johnny said Mr. Hughes wanted me to swim at his parties and would do something for me on a tank I invented, which has mirrors on all sides and creates an illusion of many girls swimming in the tank at the same time.

"I first met Mr. Hughes at what I guess was his home on Doheny drive a week or so later. Johnny took me out in his car.

"Mr. Hughes said he would do something about my swimming and later I received calls from him and Johnny and Mr. Hughes' secretary, Charlie Guest. They wanted me to swim at a party.

"Mr. Hughes and Johnny picked me up and took me out to Doheny. I think on that party I was paid $100. Sometimes I was paid by check and sometimes by cash, by Meyer or Guest. I wouldn't be sure, but I thought some of them were Hughes' Tool Company checks.

"Anyway, it was a very nice party.

"There were about 10 couples. I remember Elliott Roosevelt—I think he was still a colonel then. He was there in his uniform with his wife, Faye Emerson.

"And Jack Frye (then TWA president and best man at Elliott's wedding) was there, and Janet Thomas, and Johnny. But mostly they were military people—brass hats—in uniform.

"We all went out to dinner first—I think it was to Barclay's Kitchen, and then we came back to the house and I put on my swimming act—in a flesh-colored bathing suit—doing back flips and spot aerials and that sort of thing.

"There were other girls there, too, swimming, but I think they were just guests.

"Then Mr. Hughes and Meyer took me home."

All told, Miss Cook recalled about five Hughes parties, but the one that impressed itself on her mind was a several days' long affair, attended by Krug, at the exclusive Raquet Club in Palm Springs.

"I know Mr. Krug wasn't the Secretary of the Interior yet. (Krug was appointed early in 1946 by President Truman). He was then the chairman of the War Production Board," she related.

"Johnny had called me and said they were having a party down there and drove me down to the Springs for a couple of days.

"I remember Janet Thomas was there,too, and Myrna Dell, and Jean Staff, an actress and singer.

"We spent a couple of days there, relaxing, swimming, dining, and having drinks and so on."

Miss Cook couldn't remember just which party it was, but she recalled she had met Col. E. W. Rawlings, who was Krug's AAF representative on the WPB airplane committee, and she was "pretty sure" she also had run into M. H. Wilner, then deputy chief of WPB's aircraft division, and Capt. J. D. Small, Krug's executive assistant.

But whether it was at Palm Springs, the Hughes home, Barclay's Kitchen, the Mocambo, Ciro's or Romanoff's, she couldn't be sure.

Miss Cook said there were U. S. Senators and members of the House of Representatives at the parties, but they apparently were easterners, out here "investigating" something or other at the time, and she didn't remember their names.

The U. S. marshal who subpoenaed her, she said, "wanted to know whose side I was on," and I told him, "I'm not on anybody's side, so he asked me, 'You didn't get any of the $40,000,000 did you,'"

Also subpoenaed by the Washington investigators, who are armed with Meyer's income tax records or "deductible business expenses" for entertainment, was Mrs. Martha Goldthwaite, tall willowy ex-model.

"I don't know why they called me," she said.

"All I can tell them is that I was invited to the parties. I don't even know who was there. I don't know Hughes well enough to say hello to him. Gosh! I don't know what I did three months ago—let alone three years ago."

She remembered parties at Mocambo and the town house, where uniformed officers were present.

"I called by fiance, Paul Ellis, this morning in Texas," she went on, "and he gave me a terrific bawling out and told me everything was off between us."

Then she cried.

"All I know is that this thing has made me a nervous wreck and has hurt me a lot," said the former model when she regained her composure.

"Johnny Meyer, whom I met through my first husband, asked me to go to the parties, and I went. And that's all I got out of them."

Mrs. Goldthwaite thought "It's pretty mean of the government to make it look like those girls got paid—Besides, I think it's a little personal."

JUDY COOK, blonde actress and professional swimmer, stands on lawn (above) of the Beverly Hills mansion where she says she attended lavish wartime parties thrown by Howard Hughes. Miss Cook, in bathing attire at right, appeared as a swimmer at the parties.

Petrillo Income Tax Paid By Union Is Studied

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Rep. Kearns (R.) of Pennsylvania said today the Treasury Dept. is studying the income taxes of James C. Petrillo, president of the AFL Musicians Union.

Treasury experts figure that an average tax on a $46,000 income would be around $20,000. But if the union paid that tax, the income then would be $66,000—and the tax bgiger. For Petrillo to net $46,000, clear of taxes, they said the union probably would pay well over $100,000 in income levies.

Krug Holds Spotlight In War Fraud Quiz

By CHARLES FINSTON
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 24—Interior Sec. Julius A. Krug emerged today as a key figure in the Senate war fraud inquiry involving Howard Hughes and his $40,000,000 unbuilt fabulous flying boats.

The 40-year-old cabinet member, it was learned, was sharply interrogated for several hours Tuesday morning by three senators and an investigator. He was scheduled to appear for further questioning later in the week. The questioning took place secretly.

Krug, however, stoutly denied any connection with Hughes' lavish war contract parties, involving curvaceous but minor Hollywood actresses and models.

The three Senators—Brewster (R.) of Maine, Ferguson (R.) of Michigan and Hatch (D.) of New Mexico, and the investigator, Bill Rogers—then confronted the big, husky Cabinet member with a fistful of expense vouchers.

The vouchers had been marked by Johnny Myer, Hughes' public relations man.

Some of these vouchers linked Krug's name to cafe parties, followed by gatherings in the wee hours at Hughes' Hollywood estate. One voucher cited the purchase of a case of Scotch whisky for $90.

Krug appeared crestfallen, but maintained his innocence. He was then permitted to take home a cupy of the many expense items, to study them leisurely before his next appearance for a secret quiz.

Sen. Hatch, however, promptly reported to the White House where he laid out all facts thus far developed before President Truman. Truman received the story without comment.

A reporter interrogated Krug at his home. The Cabinet member was shown a dispatch from Hollywood in which beauteous Judy Cook, film actress and swimmer, identified Krug as having been an attendant at parties in Hughes' home.

Krug declined to be quoted, but flatly denied ever having been at a party in Hughes' home or knowing Miss Cook. He said the only contact he had with Hughes was when the producer-flier tested a Constellation plane on its initial flight.

The investigating senators have many vouchers linking many wartime notables to Hughes' Scotch-and-girl parties. Early vouchers show each beauty was paid $50. Later vouchers reveal the price went to $100 for appearance for an evening.

When the official Senate inquiry opens Monday, there will be other big names, besides Krug, who will be summoned to the witness chair.

South End Girl Murder Suspect Grilled By Police

Picked up by detectives on a "tip" from his wife, a 29 year-old South End man faced exhaustive questioning today concerning the sex slaying of a five-year-old girl in Lansdale, Pa., on Mother's Day.

Pennsylvania State Detectives John Murphy and Henry Fitzgerald were due to arrive here today after a hurried trip by auto from the office of the district attorney in Montgomery County.

They will question him on the attack slaying of little Carol Thompson, whose body was found in a well near her home in Lansdale, and concerning the murder of a bookie in Mannyonk, Pa.

Boston police said the suspect told them that he and a casual acquaintance stopped their car in Lansdale on the murder date and separated for a while. He was rejoined by the acquaintance, who told him they have "got to get out of here. I've just got into a lot of trouble with those kids," according to his story quoted by police.

The suspect, however, denied any knowledge of the slaying at a later appearance in the line up and claimed he was drunk when arrested and didn't know what he was saying. His wife turned him in as soon as she learned he was back in town, police said.

W.C.Fields Gave Half-Million To 8 Women, Suit Charges

LOS ANGELES, July 24 (AP)—The widow of comedian W. C. Fields asserts in a claim against his estate that the actor gave thousands of dollars of their community holdings to eight women friends.

Mrs. Harriett Fields, estranged from Fields since shortly after they were married in 1900, filed a claim for $241,225 on the contention his gifts to the women and others totaled $482,450 and that she is entitled to half that as her share of their community property.

Her petition was directed against Mrs. Magda Michael, Fields' secretary and executor of his estate. The appraised value of the estate is $800,000.

The widow's petition listed these Fields' gifts to the women friends. Maude Fendick, New York, $50,000 plus a $5000 trust fund; Elizabeth C. Poole, now deceased, $25,000; Mildred Linelle Blackburn, $25,000; Fay Adler, $1300; Grace George, $11,000; Babel Roach, Philadelphia, $6000; actress Carlotta Monti, $100,000, and Mrs. Michael, $5000.

Mrs. Field said her husband gave his sister, Mrs. Adel C. Smith of Collingwood, N. J., $100,000 and his brother, Walter N. J., $125,000 plus proceeds from a $125,000 life insurance policy.

The widowsaid Fields was virtually penniless when they were married and the money he amassed afterward was community property. She said she was compelled to accept support "far below her just due." She said he deserted her and that she made repeated attempts at a reconciliation. Under his will she and their son, W. Claude Fields, Los Angeles, were given $20,000.

WHATSIT DOES IT!

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—Pulling a recalcitrant rabbit from a narrow slot between two buildings is not as easy as pulling a rabbit out of a hat. But six policemen and an S. P. C. A. agent turned the trick yesterday—after two hours.

Pet of Marian Zimmerman, 5, the Albino rabbit was snared with a Whatsit rigged up from a fishpole, boathook and an old sock.

Bulldozers Clear Franconia Landslide

FRANCONIA, N. H., July 24—Tourist travel along Franconia Notch highway was back to normal today after bulldozers removed tons of rock and earth from a landslide that blocked Route 3 for four hours.

Heavy rains weakened the west slope of Mt. Liberty near the Old Man of the Mountain and a slide 2500 feet long and some 100 feet wide roared onto the highway.

LEEDS
35 WINTER STREET, BOSTON, MASS.

In this business as in many others, much of our attention is devoted to the buying and the selling of the new thing. What little success Zareh Inc. has had is in large measure due to our constant effort to select and then display items of apparel which either in color, or fabric or cut (and sometimes in all three) are original. This preoccupation with the novel however has never closed our eyes to the importance of the so called "staple" things, those items which over a period of years have proved both their value and their customer acceptance. We have many such staples but one of the very best we have is a tropical worsted suit that despite a "popular" price has tremendous merit. We have carried this particular suit for eight years (the last five years in quantities far less than we needed) and yet today our customers prefer it more than ever. And rightly so because its cut, fabric and wear is really top grade. The "make" of the garment (sewing, pressing, linings, buttons, etc.) however is just ordinary but that is what allows this very very attractive suit to sell for the heart warming price of

$45 *

*We have just received a few dozens of these. We are particularly happy because so many in this shipment are in dark blue, its best color.

Mead Slated to Head Democrats

WASHINGTON, July 24—Former Sen. James M. Mead (D.) of New York was slated to succeed Robert Hannegan as chairman of the Democratic National Committee and generalissimo of the party's 1948 presidential campaign.

Mead has maintained modest office quarters in the capital since his defeat last fall as the Democratic gubernatorial nominee against Gov. Dewey.

Selection of Mead to head up the party's national organization would climax persistent reports that Hannegan has sought to resign because of illness.

Lawyer Opens Red Hunt in Hollywood

Special to the Boston American

HOLLYWOOD, July 24—H. A. Smith, a lawyer who ran down criminals when he was with the FBI, began the job of investigating "criminals against democracy"—Communists in Hollywood.

The 37-year-old attorney has just returned from Washington, D. C. There he was briefed for his job by Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee.

In September the committee will hold a full-dress hearing in the Capital. By then Smith must finish organizing the testimony gathered here last May by a House subcommittee and also complete a further scrutiny of Red infiltration into the movies.

The seven years Smith spent with the FBI, five of them in Los Angeles, taught him, he said, that criminals are basically anti-social.

The "party-liners" he feels, are of the same breed of destructionists. The high-salaried Communists who inveigh against the democracy which nurtured them are filled with anti-social resentments and emotionally immature "sympathies," he declared.

Commons Member Barks Like Dog

LONDON, July 24 (AP)—Red-eyed, haggard members of the House of Commons—some stretched out snoring and one barking like a dog—ended a near-record all-night session at 10:50 a. m. today.

In the 20-hour sitting, which saw accusations of drunkenness hurled across the House floor, the heavy Labor majority defeated more than 40 House of Lords amendments to the billion-pound ($4,000,000,000) transport nationalization bill.

The acrimonious session broke up with a discussion of greyhound racing, enlivened when an unidentified member barked metrily for nearly two minutes.

The overnight marathan put finishing touches to the measure bringing railroads and long-distance motor transport under public ownership.

Atomic Unit Cost Now Cut From $1,000,000 to $50

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Improved techniques to combat health hazards of atomic energy have been developed by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. The commission also reports increasing production and distribution of radioisotopes (radioactive materials used in medical and other research) now made in the same uranium chain-reacting "ovens" used in developing the A-bomb.

A tiny unit of radioactive Carbon 14 can now be sold to researchers for $50, compared with a cost of $1,000,000 by the cyclotron or atom-smashup method.

The report spoke specifically of protecting workers in atomic energy plants, but any technique to detect early radiation damage would be of value in case of an atomic war. The commission listed among "accomplishments" in coping with health hazards:

1—Entirely new types of electronic health instruments for detecting radiations.

2 — Determination of the distribution within the body of fission products inhaled, ingested, or absorbed through cuts.

3—Improved techniques for detection of early radiation damage to the body.

4—More accurate determination of the permissible daily tolerance dosages of nuclear radiations by persons exposed to them.

5—Development of industrial-type masks and other equipment for reducing dangers in breathing air contaminated with radioactive materials.

Concerning utilization of radioistopes in research, the report said progress has been made in knowledge of utilization of "tracer atoms" and in studies of cancerous tissue.

Ex-Star Has Dreary Revisits Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 24 (AP)—Dressed in cool, summery white, Mae Murray returned yesterday to movieland where she was a leading vamp of the silent era. It was her first visit here in three years.

She said she hoped to dispose of a couple of story properties, wouldn't be averse to a film role if the right one came along this fall, and planned to go to Europe in December to fill screen commitments there.

JVA Must Check On Home Safety

Mrs. Harriet J. Haynes, extension home economist at the University of Massachusetts, declares that National Farm Safety Week this week July 20-26 is a good time for 4-H members, including Junior Victory Army boys and girls, to check up on safety around the home.

Falls are by far the most common type of fatal accidents states Mrs. Haynes, causing about half the total of home accidents in Massachusetts last year.

Falls in the home, observes Mrs Haynes, can be avoided by providing sturdy hand railings for all stairways and a gate at the top and bottom of stairs where there are little children in the home. Stairs should be kept free of all articles, toys, shoes, brooms, mop, dust pan etc.

"According to the National Safety Council," says Mrs Haynes, "home accidents were 3 per cent greater in 1945 than in 1944, and in 1944 there were 33,500 killed, 5,000,000 injured, and 130,000 permanent impairments. This cost $600,000,000," she adds

To join the JVA, send your name, age and address to the Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin well wrapped in your letter.

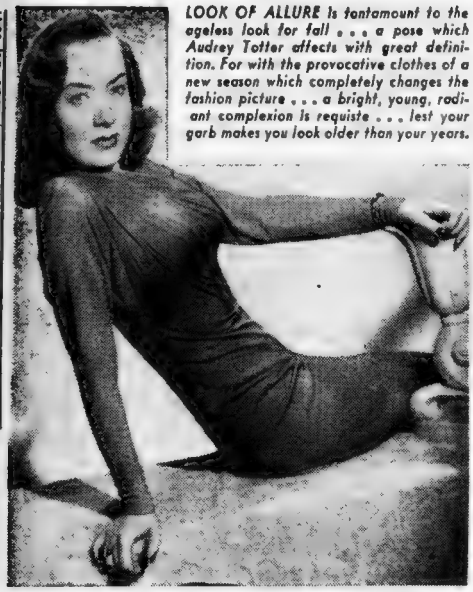
Continue Facial Attention



LOOK OF ALLURE is tantamount to the ageless look for fall . . . a pose which Audrey Totter affects with great definition. For with the provocative clothes of a new season which completely changes the fashion picture . . . a bright, young, radiant complexion is requisite . . . lest your garb makes you look older than your years.

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

ALLURE, TOUJOURS ALLURE! That's the facial look for fall . . . so they say in New York . . . and well it must be if it is to match poses with the new fashions into every seam of which has been written insinuating femininity. That word "insinuating" has been much overworked of late . . . but it is so accurately descriptive of clothes, of beauty, of everything pertinent to the new provocative look . . . that its repeated use is purposeful.

By now you should know that the draped and rounded . . . or the wrapped, like thread around a bobbin look is fall's forecast. Millinery is mighty . . . crushing, in some instances. However you choose to dress for fall . . . ignore the long, but definitely longer skirts or accept the elegant-lady lushness . . . one thing is certain. Your face will demand more attention than ever before.

Beauty never changes . . . it only becomes more intense. And there will be need for undivided concentration on the complexion to make it the foil of perfection for hats and dresses . . . suits and coats. There is so much sweep to fall fashions . . . so much of the grand dame reflection that the gal with the inferiority complex is going to be up against it.

INJECT THAT AGELESS LOOK

While you can take it slow and easy with fashions . . . and like eating an olive, you'll have to learn to like new clothes . . . you can't mark time with the loveliness of your face. That's something which requires prompt attention. So start now with a precious oil treatment and inject into the facial pelt the ageless look to counteract the somewhat aging appearance of longer garb

This oil . . . of which only seven drops are necessary . . . will virtually revamp the complexion into an expanse of honied smoothness and softness. There is always allure in a beautiful skin. There is always youth in a firm, unwrinkled complexion.

This 7-drop treatment entailing a greaseless, quickly absorbent oil, its precious ingredient the counterpart of the tissue substance which keeps the complexion firm, fine and feminine, is a cherished formula from the old world when beauties were historically-acclaimed for their loveliness. A drop on the forehead, each eyelid, each cheekbone, nose and chin . . . then blended over the skin with gentle but firm massage . . . does the trick.

This oil treatment challenges time's etching on the face . . . and simultaneously reconditions and renovates the skin into a really beautiful pelt.

For the name of this 7-drop precious oil treatment, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, daily except week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

GREEN . . . a very strong and popular fall and winter color . . . is used by Mary Black for this town and country suit . . . its zippered, sleeveless jacket fashioned of an imported hand-woven wool with diagonal gold stripe. The one-piece dress with slim green wool skirt is accented at midriff with diagonal stripe to preserve the jacket harmony. Yoke is gold crepe with soft half jabot at neck and long full sleeves . . . important for bowtie wrist treatment . . . R. M.

She's in Love--But Doubtful

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I am a girl of 19, and have known a boy of 20 for the past five years. We have gone out together many times, and about seven months ago began going steady. He tells me he has always loved me and has asked me to marry him as soon as he finishes college.

I am sure we could make a go of marriage, but there is one thing which is holding me back. I am sure I love him, but when he kisses me, my stomach and knees fail to get weak, and I do not get the so-called chill up and down my spine. I enjoy kissing him, and having him kiss me, even without the chills.

Do you think a marriage of this sort could work out?

"WITHOUT CHILLS WILMA

Dear Wilma:

I may be wrong, of course, but I doubt very much if you have a bona fide case of serious heart trouble. On the contrary, what you write me of your symptoms —the lack of sensation in the stomach, the failure of the knee jerk, and the total absence of chills along the spine, makes me feel it highly probable that you are merely suffering from a transitory condition quite common among young people of your age, to which science gives the rather imposing name of Jokeritis adolescens.

Do not allow yourself to become alarmed by this sinister-sounding expression, however—you know how these medical men are with their technical terms—as, in plain English, it means nothing more than a simple case of itching risibles, an ailment not nearly as trying as pimples, and which, like pimples, will disappear as you grow older.

Believe me, annoying as it is, especially when complicated, as I suspect yours may be, by periodic attacks of uncontrollable, hysterical giggling, it is definitely a temporary thing, of which you should be free in a few years. If I were you, I would put any worry about your reactions to this young man, or lack of them, out of my mind and wait for Time to get in its good work.

Form of Name for Publication

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

To settle an argument, will you please answer this question: When a reporter from a newspaper is asking for the names of guests at some public occasion, should I, when he asks for mine, give my name as, for instance, "Mrs. John Smith" or as "Mrs. Mary Smith"?

You should give your name as "Mrs. John Smith."

Platter Dinners

By MARTHA LEE
Household Editor

ONE WAY TO RELAX during the summer months is to serve the family colorful and festive-looking platter dinners made with macaroni products.

Macaroni, spaghetti, or noodles, baked in a ring mold and centered with bright colored vegetables and velvety sauces are as gay as a summer bouquet. Add to these a bit of tasty meat, seafood, poultry or eggs, and each serving contains some of almost everything we need for summer vitality.

Creamy Noodle Ring with Chicken a la King is a memorable good-by to Sunday's feast and a cheerful starter for the work-a-day week. If no chicken was left, use salmon or tuna to make a Seafood a la King. A 7-ounce can of tuna or salmon takes the place of the chicken.

CREAMY NOODLE WITH CHICKEN A LA KING

1 tbsp. salt
3 qts. boiling water
8 ounces medium noodles
¼ cup butter or margarine
⅓ cup enriched flour
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1 cup grated American cheese
½ tsp. dry mustard
2 tbsp. minced parsley
½ tsp. salt
2 cups milk
2 eggs, beaten

Add 1 tablespoon salt to actively boiling water. Gradually add noodles and boil until tender, about four minutes. Drain and rinse. While noodles are cooking, melt butter or margarine in top of double boiler. Stir in flour, 1 teaspoon salt, add pepper. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly until thickened. Add sauce to egg, mixing well. Add cheese, mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt, and parsley. Fold in noodles. Pour into greased 9-inch ring mold. Set in pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 45 minutes. Turn out on chop plate and fill center with chicken a la king. Makes one 9-inch ring.

CHICKEN A LA KING

2 cups medium white sauce
1 to 2 cups cooked, diced chicken
2 tbsp. chopped pimiento
2 tbsp. chopped green pepper
2 tbsp. chopped parsley

Mix ingredients and fold into white sauce.

If no ring mold is available, any ordinary baking pan will do nicely.

Spaghetti Custard is baked in a square pan and cut into squares, or in a round pan and cut into wedges, and topped with saucy vegetables and eggs.

SPAGHETTI CUSTARD WITH PEAS AND EGGS IN CHEESE

1 tbsp. salt
3 qts. boiling water
6 ounces elbow spaghetti
1 tbsp. melted butter or margarine
1½ tsp. salt
2 cups medium white sauce
¼ tsp. dry mustard
2 diced, hard-cooked eggs
1 cup cooked peas
½ cup grated cheese
2 tbsp. chopped pimiento
⅓ cup milk
3 eggs, beaten

Add 1 tablespoon salt to actively boiling water. Gradually add spaghetti and continue boiling until spaghetti is tender, about 7 minutes. Drain and rinse spaghetti. While spaghetti is cooking, combine melted butter or margarine, salt, milk and eggs. Fold in spaghetti. Pour into greased 8x8-inch pan or 9-inch round pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) about 35 minutes. While custard is baking, combine white sauce, mustard, eggs, peas, cheese and pimiento. Heat thoroughly. Serve Spaghetti Custard cut in squares, if baked in square pan, or in wedges if baked in round pan, topped with peas and eggs in cheese sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Choose Hat Carefully

By EILEEN CALLAHAN

THE GIRL whose bad feature is a long, thin face is adding insult to injury when she emphasizes its long line by wearing a tall, peaked hat. In fashion as in other departments of life, a girl's worst enemy is often herself.

When you choose a hat your first consideration should be not how it fits your head but how it fits your face. Study the construction of your face. Determine its general shape. Are its lines broad or long? Is it a rounded face or a sharp one? Evaluate your features. Are they small or large or average? Do you have one not-so-good large nose, eyes that are too close together?

This impartial estimate of your face will be your guide in choosing the hat that will flatter you. If your face is built on long thin lines, improve it by wearing a hat with a moderately wide brim, a hat that fills in the gap between shoulders and ears. Avoid height in the center. Bows, veiling and flowers should be placed toward the sides of the hat so that the eye is carried across rather than up and down.

Shipyard OKs Pact Affecting 25,000 Workers

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (INS)—The CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers announced a tentative agreement with Todd shipyards in Hoboken, N. J., and Brooklyn, N. Y., on wages and other working conditions for 25,000 employes.

John Green, union president, said the agreement is subject to ratification by the various locals and by the national office. He said if the wage issue is settled here, Todd had agreed to extend the terms to the Todd-Johnson yards in New Orleans.

Dancer Sues Mate as 'Lesson'

NEW YORK, July 24 (INS)—Diosa Costello, the Puerto Rican dancer, admitted her separation suit against rhumba band leader Pupi Campo is just "to teach him a lesson."

She still loves him and hopes for a reconciliation today.

She denied it was movie star Van Johnson who caused her to file for a separation—she said it was Pupi's imagination that she still loved Van.

TOO SERIOUS TO IGNORE

DR. CARLETON SIMON, one of New York city's more distinguished criminologists, believes that murder, robbery and most other acts of violence and depravity are cradled in the twin evils of divorce and alimony.

Warning that 50 per cent of today's juvenile delinquents are the flotsam of broken homes, this authority recently said:

"As long as we have the racket of alimony, and as long as easy roads to divorce are open to hasty, impulsive and indiscriminate individuals, and as long as easy divorce encourages these conditions, so long will we have smashed homes, destruction of domestic morality and its train of anti-social troubles."

Substantially the same thing was said at least half a hundred times during the last session of the Massachusetts Legislature, without any noticeable effect on the divorce courts and their patronage. Too many lawmakers had other matters on their minds; they couldn't be bothered by crumbling marital unions, and they weren't.

Perhaps the recalcitrants can be induced to give a little belated attention to men like Dr. Simon, who speak from long and rather disheartening experience, now that such weighty and pressing issues as tax boosts and budget-balancing have been disposed of.

With homes falling apart as rapidly as ever and delinquency pouring from the wreckage, the belated attention would be worth while.

It is true, of course, that better divorce laws in Massachusetts will probably fail to measure up to their sponsors' expectations as long as other States emulate Nevada, where getting a new spouse is looked on as a business stimulant, much as inducing a tourist to bring himself and his cash to a lake or mountain resort.

What we urgently need and what we must eventually have are UNIFORM divorce laws for all States patterned after those frequently suggested by Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas.

BEACH SAFETY

WE HAVE long contended that this would be a much safer country if the word accident were removed from the English language and something more accurate and truthful substituted.

Rarely, if ever, is there such a happening as an accident. Honest investigation will show almost always that the unfortunate event was the logical and natural result of somebody's heedlessness, thoughtlessness or carelessness.

This is particularly true of drownings, which could be reduced at least 75 per cent if all persons, especially parents, accepted and retained the knowledge that a moratorium on common sense caution at a bathing or swimming place is a wantonly reckless gamble with one's own or somebody else's life.

Only an expert swimmer should ever venture into water that rises above his waist.

No child should be allowed to enter water unless a competent adult is standing by to grab him in case he falls.

Canoes, sailboats and other easily capsized craft are NOT safe playthings for persons who require lifebuoys to keep afloat.

NO BARRIERS

REP. PETER J. JORDAN of Revere, Republican leader in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, says he is going to file a bill to include all women of the Marines and Coast Guard in the law granting war veterans a $2000 income tax exemption.

This is the kind of public service the people expect and GET from Mr. Jordan, who has probably authorized more progress and prosperity than any other member of his party on Beacon Hill in the last decade.

No barriers were raised against the Marine and Coast Guard ladies when their help was solicited and obtained in the war years.

Why, then, should they be the victims of bias and favoritism, now that peace has blessed the land?

A mother's love—how sweet the name!
What is a mother's love?
A noble, pure and tender flame
Enkindled from above.
To bring a helpless babe to light,
Then, while it lies forlorn,
To gaze upon that dearest sight,
And feel herself new-born,
In its existence lose her own,
And live and breathe in it alone:
This is a mother's love
—MONTGOMERY.

IN COMMUNITY property states the family income and possessions are owned by the husband and wife on a 50 per cent basis. That is my understanding. Therefore I continue to be baffled that when divorce enters the picture the wife frequently gets all the community property and the poor wretch of a husband gets nothing. For example, in the recent case of a pair of Hollywoodians the wife got all the community property, which consisted of the family mansion in Beverly Hills, some business properties, several bank accounts, two automobiles, government bonds, shares in film enterprises and real estate concerns and four insurance policies of $30,000 each. As far as I could see, all the husband got was an order to pay $300 a month for the support of the children in his ex-wife's custody. With all that dough and property you would think the wife would support the kiddies. Anyway, she might have at least given the husband one of the two automobiles. No wonder husbands in community property states view the situation with alarm and bachelors in the same places are wary about embarking on the sea of matrimony.

ASKING: Queries from clients. Q—What male film stars wear girdles? A—Our files do not contain the information you desire. Even if they did, we would not divulge the same. Nor do we report as to what male film stars wear wigs. However, I do not think "girdles" is the proper name for what male film stars wear for streamlining purposes. "abdominal supporters" is what they are called. Many men, other than film stars, are now said to be wearing these "corporation" smoother outs. Q—Rare are major leaguers who play for the team of the city in which they live. Which city in the two major leagues do you think could muster up the best team of native sons and bona fide residents? A—Chicago. Q—Who wrote the song "Fritzie Boy"? A—Couldn't say. Maybe it was Gitz Rice. All I know is it was a World War I song and included the line: "If you want to see your mother in the Fatherland keep your head down, Fritzie Boy."

ASIDES: The luncheon menu of the Enright restaurant, Pittsburgh, has 31 entrees to choose from. The chef in that eatery must certainly be a busy fellow. "What are the six softest jobs?" asks a Philadelphian. The softest of all jobs is that of baseball writer. I will have to give some thought to the matter before naming the other five.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Saw Leatrice Joy today. She recently became a grandmother.

Leatrice Joy

Seems as if it were only the day before yesterday she was a sweet, young thing playing with Tom Meighan in "Manslaughter" . . . Heard from Fred Rath, veteran Tin Pan Alleyist. He wrote that touching little ballad, "Just a Girl That Men Forget' . . . My progress continues to amaze me. I am reliably informed I have three readers in Hohokus, N. J.

PLEASE NOTE: Once tennis is mastered it requires little stamina and energy to play. It is chiefly a matter of placing the ball. That's what I said. Despite the arguments to the contrary, advanced by innumerable subscribers who are tennis enthusiasts, that's what I still think. Fellows who find a lot of stamina and energy necessary for tennis don't know how to play the game. Clever players try to outwit their opponent. Not to outhit or outrun him. Tennis players who work themselves into a terrific sweat and finish the playing of a few sets in an exhausted condition should give a thought to the following immortal advice:

The secret of tennis
Is control and restraint
And hitting the ball
Where the other fellow ain't.

POACHED EGGS: Why does a poached egg always have to be on something? That is on toast, on corned beef hash, etc. Why can't it stand alone? I like poached eggs when not on toast, and corned beef hash without poached eggs. I believe poached eggs should be well done. A soft poached egg is a terrible thing. Did you ever have a cold poached egg sandwich? In Middletown, Ct., where I went to college, there was a lunch wagon owner who made a specialty of this type of sandwich. It is really good.

THESE DAYS

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

THE TEST of any public relations policy or propaganda is its effectiveness. Great experts can sit about a council table spouting on what should be done, profoundly discussing great plans, or making presentations, as they call it, but if it all defeats the intended objectives, the job is badly done, no matter who does it.

Nelson Rockefeller

For instance, Nelson Rockefeller made a terrific to-do and spent huge amounts of the taxpayers' money on what was sloganized into "The Good Neighbor Policy."

The objective of this activity was to make Central and South American countries friendly to the United States, or was it that?

At any rate, we come out of the war with the Argentine and most of the Central and South American countries not a little suspicious of the great American benefactor.

Similarly the OWI was a great government agency to tell the world about the United States. Apparently, it told them everything but that. It worked to convince the Europeans that Soviet Russia was a democratic and peace-loving country—and the United States paid for that.

WHEN THE OWI was abolished, its functions together with some of its personnel were transferred to the State Department. At the head of the enterprise was placed William Benton, formerly of Benton and Bowles, advertising men in New York who could by slogans and jingles make the American people chew a particular kind of breakfast food, could by similar devices makes the world love America.

Maybe it is an impossible task. Maybe debtors never can love their creditor. Maybe poor and starving nations can never forgive a rich and prosperous nation. The fact is that whatever it was that William Benton undertook to do, there is too little evidence that it has been done.

Mr. Benton's job is to win friends for this country in Europe and Asia. He has devised what he calls "The Voice of America," a radio short-wave propaganda program. It seems to get nowhere.

Mr. Benton and the State Department ask for large appropriations for his office on the ground that the Russians spend lots of money. His opponents point to the fact that while there is a powerful pro-Russian party in the United States, including members of Congress, there is no evidence that there is a pro-American party in Russia.

The answer to that is either that it cannot be done—then why spend the money; or that it is badly done—then why not change both the method and the personnel?

J. H. HUIZINGS once made an interesting point about Goebbels. He said:

". . . His political principals were not afraid to recognize that foreign policy is but the continuation of war by other means. And it was this fundamental intellectual honesty underlying German foreign policy which placed their propagandists in such a favorable position. It allowed them to conduct psychological warfare, where others could only make vague propaganda or, better, information. It freed them from the moral restraints . . . It enabled them . . . To tell not only whopping big lies but, even more effective propaganda, whopping big truths."

Of course, it is questionable whether Americans want to engage in any such activity or could do it if they tried. We are not good liars. Maybe that is why Archibald MacLeish, Elmer Davis, Nelson Rockefeller and William Benton have failed in a field where lying is so much a part of the job. In fact, among a free people, lying is almost impossible, for someone somewhere will call attention to the lie.

AT ANY RATE, the general feeling among the Republicans in Congress is that Benton, like his predecessors, has failed and that he ought to quit or be fired. They generally feel that he has handled his job with that distant look of the great New York executive who leaves details to his juniors, and they do not like many of his juniors.

Congressman Fred E. Busbey put it all succinctly when he said:

". . . To defend ourselves we should first of all make a thorough housecleaning and liquidation of the present monstrosity in the State Department" . . . This job needs a thorough study by competent men. That has never been done.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 24—If you think M-G-M is giving Ava Gardner a chance to cool off after "The Hucksters," you can guess again. Bob Taylor isn't ready to start "This Is Love" with Ava, so without waiting the gal goes immediately into "Wanted" with Van Johnson.

Ava Gardner

It's no secret that Ava is expected to develop into the same type of star Joan Crawford was when she belonged to Leo the Lion. I mean glamorous, colorful in her private life and good publicity copy.

Thelma Watson's original story, "Wanted," sounds like something entirely new for Van. It's about a man suffering from amnesia who escapes from an institution, dials a wrong number and becomes involved in a murder. Richard Thorpe will direct and George Haight produce.

I'VE SAID I wouldn't mention anyone else for the role of Valentino, because it has become a sort of joke, but this is too hot to pass by. Ricardo Montelban, who scored such a hit in "Fiesta," is all but signed for the part. All Eddie Small has to do is borrow him from M-G-M, and I'm told negotiations are at the closing point.

The picture goes in October with Archie Mayo directing. Through the grapevine I hear M-G-M would have been willing to buy the whole Valentino story and all the money Small has invested for Montelban, but Eddie has decided to make it himself. Frankly, I was surprised that they would consent to loaning Montelban, only that Valentino would be the perfect role for him.

THE DANA ANDREWS are expecting another baby, their fourth child. They already have two boys and a girl, and Dana said today he's hoping this one will be a girl. Their oldest boy, David, is 14, and they have a daughter, Katherine, 5, and Stephen, 2. The happy event is scheduled for January.

HOW-OLD-IT-MAKES-ME-FEEL DEPARTMENT: Today Dickie Moore celebrated his 22nd birthday on the Sol Wurtlzer set of "Dangerous Years."

Helping him celebrate were Darryl Hickman, another oldtimer, who believe it or not is 17 and been in pictures 14 years; 17-year-old Scotty Beckett, who's been on the screen for 16 years; and 16-year-old Ann Todd, a Hollywood veteran for 11 years. Dickie himself started when he was a year old. Seems only yesterday I was watching these youngsters as baby stars.

THE REUNION of Steve Cochran and Fay McKenzie in New York didn't work out, I'm sorry to say. Steve says it's all his fault. He didn't want Fay to continue her career. He wanted her to be just Mrs. Steve Cochran.

"But I can't blame her," he said, "she's a good actress. However, we just couldn't patch up things, but any story must come from her."

Fay admitted they had separated, but said they love each other and she hopes they can iron out their difficulties. Well, now, how come? Why can't they settle their troubles without parting? Ever since their marriage they had had a stormy time with Fay's parents disapproving. But if they love each other that's important.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: This is not rumor, but official, right from Joan Crawford. She has not reconciled with Don "Red" Barry. These are Joan's own words:

"I returned the white mink coat and the jewelry in the presence of two lawyers and I hold signed receipts. Then I bought back what I wanted of Mr. Barry's gifts with my own money. There is no chance of a reconciliation. He has called me numberless times, but I have no intention of ever reconciling. Will you please tell that and deny the ridiculous report that I am seeing Don Barry?"

So that ought to end that chapter once and for all.

Attention, you stars who happen to have millimeter prints of some of your best pictures (and I know many of you have). Get in touch with the special service office of Birmingham Hospital.

Lloyd Pantages, who has done such fine work in veteran hospitals, called me to say that the tubercular ward at Birmingham has just been given two 35-millimeter projection machines by the B'nai Brith—but they have few films to show.

This is for the boys who are unable to get out of bed and see the regular movies—so please help to make them happy. Call Lloyd or the Special Service office.

The first big chance Martha Hyers had was in "Roughshod," an RKO picture, so you can imagine her despair when she was stricken with appendicitis and had to be operated on at the little hospital at Bridgeport, Cal., where the company is on location.

Today she was cheered by receiving word from Jack Gross, producer, that she wouldn't lose her job. In the picture are Bob Sterling and Claude Jarman, Jr.

A third son, born to the Parkyakarkuses (pardon me, the Harry Einsteins), was more than Eddie Cantor could bear.

Eddie, you know, gave Parky his first break on the radio. And so when Eddie, whose household abounds in daughters, heard that his former henchman was the papa of a third boy, he couldn't wait to picket his house.

At 3 o'clock in the morning, right after the baby was born, Eddie drove to the house and started throwing rocks!

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random:

The surprise of the week was Cary Grant and Betty Hensel, together again at the Chanteclair. Surprising, because there had been such a coolness between them.

Gregory Ratoff has already arrived in Italy where he is to direct "Cagliostro" for Edward Small. Two days ago he was in Mexico City. Traveling from country to country is only a matter of hours these days.

John Hart and Vivian White, radio actress, were divorced in Mexico last week.

Friends of Guy Bolton say he and his second wife are now in Europe together. He was formerly married to Narmara, onetime opera singer.

Bob Hope, who is so terribly sunburned, will have to bleach out before he goes into "Pale Face" on account of it's in Technicolor, but Jane Russell's scenes come first and in a week he's expected to be well enough to start work.

Mrs. Mickey Rooney

Mrs. Mickey Rooney slipped quietly into town for a conference with her lawyer, former Judge Leonard Wilson. Mickey has been trying to get her to settle out of court but so far she's been adamant.

Sorry to hear Mrs. William Gaxton just underwent a serious operation.

Walter Slezak has given his family estate in Bavaria to be used as a museum and park. He has an exceptionally large library of music.

Now it's Vera-Ellen Rory Calhoun is squiring about. That boy gets around.

Peter Lawford and Helena Carter a comely pair of dancers at Ciro's.

Igor Gorin, who was with me in the old "Hollywood Hotel" days, arrives here early next month. What a gorgeous voice he has. He'll try for the movies.

Sonja Henie will make an independent cinecolor picture when she gets back from Europe, and Dennis O'Keefe will be her leading man.

Sam Perrin and George Balzer had a celebration dinner at Peggy Cleary's Talk of the Town. Celebration was because they finished their new musical, "Hey, Senorita," which opens on Broadway this fall.

The notices on Vivian Blaine from London are excellent.

WASHINGTON, July 24—Mr. Grover Whitney McKeister, the mephitic legislative consultant, came in the other day and said he had just learned from inside sources that it won't be either Taft or Dewey.

"Won't be either Taft or Dewey what?" demanded my social secretary, Mrs. Tabitha Talcott Pratt.

"Won't be either Taft or Dewey for the Republican nomination," replied Mr. McKeister. "It will be a compromise candidate."

Mrs. Pratt sniffed, as she always does when Mr. McKeister comes into proximity, and retorted:

"You cheap lobbyists pretend you know everything. Now you're going to tell us who'll be our next President. Fat lot you know!"

"You wrong me, dear lady," smirked Mr. McKeister. "I do not claim to be omniscent. In fact, the only fat lot I know is you."

I leaped up to prevent bloodshed because Mrs. Pratt, while the soul of gentility, tends to be touchy about her heft. But she waved me back.

"Don't be concerned," she said. "I wouldn't touch him with a ten-foot pole."

"There ain't a ten-foot pole around this joint," objected my senior naval aide, Machinist's Mate Michelangelo Rembrandt Kelly. "Could you use anything else?"

"I could lend you a set of brass knucks," offered Mr. Clarence W. (Slats) Rafferty, the eminent safecracker, who is spending his summer vacation on a habeas corpus. "They make a lovely squishing noise when they come in contact with a kisser."

"The way I get it," resumed Mr. McKeister, "Taft and Dewey will fight each other at the convention to a stalemate. Neither will withdraw, so the convention will be deadlocked. The big boys then will be all set to throw in the compromise candidate. The delegates will be tired out so they will leap at the compromise and nominate him on the next ballot."

Mr. McKeister lowered his voice and looked furtively around. "Know who it will be?" He whispered. "Gov. Warren of California!"

Mr. Rafferty said he didn't care who it would be as long as it wasn't Dewey because he had a yen for throwing folks in jail.

MR. KELLY SAID he would bet that Navy Sec'y Forrestal had been aiming at the nomination.

"But maybe he has been bought off," he amended. "They say around the Navy Yard that Truman was afraid Forrestal might run against him and to call him off he promised him the big job of Secretary of National Defense. The Prez then got War Sec'y Patterson to resign—and that's what's all behind Patterson's resignation."

Mrs. Pratt, who had been strangely silent for a full two minutes, suddenly clapped a hand to her bosom.

"Why didn't anybody think of it before!" she cried. "There is one man who can absolutely sweep the country! And he would make a wonderful President! He has proved himself to be one o fthe greatest administrators of our time and absolutely above reproach. They ought to run Speed!"

"Speed?" echoed Mr. McKeister. "Who is Speed?"

"J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI!" returned Mrs. Pratt. "He is known as 'Speed' to his very closest friends, although this has never been too widely publicized. He has everything, including the glamor they say is necessary to be a candidate."

We were all silent a moment, digesting the possibility. The lone objection emerged from Mr. Rafferty.

"I wouldn't want to be quoted," whispered the venerable peterman, "because I do not care to tangle with no G-men, but what does J. Edgar Hoover know about budgets and appropriations, and international relief and foreign credits?"

"He knows," replied Mrs. Pratt, "how to catch thieves at stealing."

"Oh," said Mr. Rafferty.

DOUGHTY HUNTERS

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., July 24 (AP)—A report of "a tiger or some large animal" sent police on a hurried trip to a residential area.

Spotlights were turned on a crouching form and four officers emptied their pistols into the figure. It didn't fall and shotguns were called for.

But before any more shots were fired someone spied straw sticking through the hide.

The bluecoats now have a stuffed cougar on display on the lawn at headquarters.

FULFILLMENT

CLEVELAND, July 24 (AP)—All the way in from Toledo there was a red-haired, freckle-faced kid of 13 riding the cab of engine 5416 on the Fifth Avenue Special, and the whistle-tooting was something special.

Tommy Sigsworth, who lives near Elyria, has been waving and blinking lights at passing New York Central trains since he was four.

Train crews consider it a normal part of their routine to toot for him when they pass the Sigsworth farm.

Deciding such an ardent railroad fan deserved a ride, the railroad carried him into Toledo and put him in the cab of the Eastbound Fifth Avenue Special, a Chicago-to-New York express.

Burma Assassin Shot to Death

RANGOON, Burma, July 24 (AP)—A man suspected of taking part in the assassination of U Aung San and six other members of the Burma Executive Council was disclosed today to have been shot to death by members of Aung San's "private army."

He lay on a marble slab in the Pegu Hospital morgue.

Officials sources said the suspect was San Yan Naung, 30, a former member of the fifth battalion of the Burma defense army which Aung San commanded against the Japanese. He also had been an officer in the Galon army commanded by former Premier U Saw, who was arrested soon after the assassinations, officials said.

Health Aide Shuts Flooded Homes

ERIE, Pa., July 24 (AP)—Approximately 100 Erie residents, evacuated from their homes during a record-breaking storm which deluged the city with more than nine inches of rain, found their homes padlocked by order of the city health officer.

Dr. James R. Smith, health officer, said the move was taken to prevent disease. He declared occupants could move back in as soon as the premises were cleaned and pronounced sanitary.

City officials estimated damage at more than $1,000,000 from water which ran two and three feet deep in scores of streets, flooded uncounted basements.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., July 24 (AP)—Honesty and his job cost C. A. Smiley two dollars.

Pulling away from a curb in his car, he caught himself absentmindedly running past a stop light.

A few minutes later he was on his job as police desk sergeant, booking one C. A. Smiley on the charge.

Vets' Housing Project Attacked

Further complications in the long-delayed Veterans' Housing program in Mattapan rose today with the announcement that dry wells, which were to be used for draining purposes, will not meet building specifications.

Building Commr. John J. Mahoney, center of the new conflict which has arisen between the Boston Housing Authority and the city, has ruled that water from the roofs of the houses in the Mattapan development would have to be carried to the sewerage system by pipes.

To do this will mean an increase of $12,000 in the 20-home project, Chairman John Carroll of the Housing Authority contends. Already the homes will cost in the vicinity of $16,000 and Carroll does not feel the veterans can afford this additional cost.

The matter will be placed before the State Emergency Commission for final decision since this board has authority to overrule Mahoney and the Board of Appeal which has backed Mahoney's contention.

Shubert Seat Sale For 'Dream Girl'

Seats are now on sale at the Shubert Theater boxoffice for the two-week engagement of the Lucille Ball-starring production of Elmer Rice's comedy, "Dream Girl," opening at that theater on Monday night.

First attraction to inaugurate the 1947-'48 season at the Shubert, "Dream Girl," following three successful workout weeks on the "strawhat" circuit, moved into the big time with its Toronto opening last Monday.

The new production, which Jules J. Leventhal is sponsoring, now includes many members of the original cast, including Scott McKay, Ann Andrews, Hayden Rorke and Jus Addiss, the original settings and lighting effects by Jo Mielziner.

AIR FIELD HANGER BURNS

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 24 (INS)—Fire today destroyed the main hangar at Rosecrans field near St. Joseph, a warehouse and two privately-owned DC-4 airplanes causing estimated $1,400,000 damage.

"SCARED TO DEATH," appropriately enough, is the title of the new Bela Lugosi-starring attraction, due on Trans-Lux screen tomorrow. Douglas Fowley and Joyce Compton are featured.

14 DIE IN INDIA OUTBREAK

LAHORE, India, July 24 (AP)—Police reported that a Moslem mob ambushed a train in a nearby village and killed 11 ordnance workers. Four others were killed in Lahore in a new outbreak of communal violence.

Crippled Irish Girl Artist of Note

VAN NUYS, Cal., July 24 (AP)—To a 62-year-old former Navy nurse, who once worked in Boston, and so crippled by arthritis that she has the use of only two fingers of her left hand, came fame today. The Veterans' Administration released the story of Irene Reid, Irish-born, who had never touched a brush until five years ago but is now, according to certain critics, one of the leading contemporary painters.

Miss Reid was transferred here recently from a Bronx Veterans' Administration hospital. To while away her time, several years ago, she began to paint tapestries. Not until last fall did she touch canvas.

But since then she has painted 21 pictures. She gave away four to friends in New York before critics saw them at a hospital exhibition. Her biggest booster is Pruett Carter of North Hollywood, noted illustrator, who has purchased two of her offerings. Says he: "She is as great a discovery as Grandma Moses (the elderly New Yorker who was "discovered" several years ago). Her work reflects a wonderful imagination and fantasy of the first order. She is a genuine primitive in every respect . . . her Irish humor reflects the 'little people' of Irish folk lore. She paints entirely from fantasy."

U. S. Restaurant Bars Gandhi Doctor

SALT LAKE CITY, July 24 (AP)—Dr. B. C. Roy, personal physician to Indian leader Mahatma Gandhi, said he learned first hand of "America's caste system" when he was refused service at a restaurant in Decatur, Ill.

The Indian leader, former mayor of Calcutta and dean of Calcutta Univ., said the fact he was barred from the restaurant in a town where he said Abraham Lincoln once taught law impressed upon him that social discrimination in India is similar to the American Negro "problem."

Sally Ames to Make Debut Here

SALLY AMES of Beverly Hills, Cal., will bring a touch of the movie and musical world to Boston debutante circles when she makes her debut here next winter under the wing of her grandmother, Mrs. Roger W. Cutler, and her aunt, Mrs. Louis Frothingham.

With an aristocratic New England ancestry and a more cosmopolitan education than most Boston debs in that she went to schools on the East and West coasts and lives in the heart of the fashionable movie colony, she is sure to be one of the interesting and popular girls in the new debutante group.

Sally is the daughter of Mrs. Ernest Charles, wife of a well known composer, and the late Frederick Lothrop Ames, Jr., yachtsman and aviator who lost his life in a plane crash at Randolph when she was a little girl. She attended the fashionable Westlake School for Girls in California, of which Shirley Temple and Betty Tyson (Mrs. Richardson) Lyeth, Jr., former Boston deb, are graduates. Last month she graduated from Brearley School in New York.

Numerous relatives in the wealthy Ames family of North Easton, famous for generations as manufacturers of ploughs, will give Sally a pleasant and festive social season here. Mrs. Cutler, who is spending the summer at her villa in Newport, was the widow of F. Lothrop Ames, Sr., before her marriage to Roger W. Cutler.

THALIA WESTON of West Newton is on the editorial staff of the Harvard Alumni Bulletin and daughter of a Harvard graduate. But it's a safe bet that from now on she'll wear a blue feather in her hat at Harvard-Yale games because tomorrow she becomes the bride of a Yale man.

She and James L. Miller of Fairfield, Ct., will be married in Pilgrim Church, Duxbury, with Rev. J. Edgar Park, president emeritus of Wheaton College, and Rev. Carl F. Hall officiating. The reception will be at Brewster Bluff, summer home of her parents, Judge and Mrs. Thomas S. Weston.

The couple will live in Boston where Mr. Miller, Yale '33, is a chemical engineer with National Research Corporation. Thalia is a Vassar graduate.

A FUTURE DEBUTANTE and Harvardian arrived on the social scene in the past few days bringing joy to their social register parents.

Dr. and Mrs. George T. Bottomley (Lydia Fuller) of Marlborough st., are the proud parents of their first son, born July 21 at Richardson House. The baby is a grandson of former Governor and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller of Beacon st., and Little Boar's Head, N. H., and Mrs. John Taylor Bottomley of Beacon st., and the late Dr. Bottomley for whom he is named. The infant has a two-year-old sister.

Mrs. George T. Bottomley

A daughter was born July 22 at Phillips House to Albert Yves Bernard, violin player with the Boston Symphony Orchestra, and Mrs. Bernard of West Newton. She is the couple's second child and will be named Amy Eustis Bernard. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Eustis Potts of Willsboro, N. Y., and M. Jean Bernard of Paris.

MRS. CHARLES F. EATON, JR.'S country place in Duxbury, Partridge House, is the setting of a sale today to benefit the New England Farm and Garden Ass'n. Tables filled with attractive articles made by New England farm women, whom the Ass'n assists, are set up in the barn and outdoors under spreading elms.

Among the many South Shore women assisting at the sale are Mrs. Robert E. Belknap, Jr., Mrs. Robert Estabrook, Mrs. Henry Palmer, Mrs. Francis C. Rogerson, Mrs. John Shillito, Mrs. G. Jackson Hill, Mrs. Charles Colby Hewitt, Mrs. Edwin Ford, Mrs. Brewster Stetson, Mrs. Foster Trainer and Mrs. Atherton Loring, Jr.

BLS said that prices for all major groups of items used by moderate income families, except rent, increased during the month.

WORRIES OVER

BALTIMORE, July 24 (AP)—William Mesnick, 46, was sentenced to three years in the House of Correction after he told Judge Joseph Sherbow in criminal court he burglarized a store to get money to pay his back income taxes.

"I got a letter I owed the government $90 for income taxes for 1944," he told the judge. "I burglarized this place to get the money."

Police said his "take" was 86 cents.

Devens to Add 1000 Students

FORT DEVENS, July 24—Accommodations for 1000 freshmen and sophomores will be available at the University of Massachusetts at Fort Devens with the opening of the fall term, Prof. Herbert A. Perkins, head of the division of records, announced today.

Prof. Perkins said applications would have to be filed before Sat., Aug. 30, with the board of admissions, University of Massachusetts, Amherst. Fort Devens provides living quarters for single veterans as well as married veterans with children.

Bradford Warns On Rent Gouging

Gov. Bradford today warned landlords taking advantage of loopholes in the new federal rent control law that they are "trifling with the will of the people."

He said no special session of the legislature would be called to pass new rent laws because the State is powerless to act while the federal law remains in effect.

MANSION SELLS FOR SONG

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—Villa Turicum, 44 room suburban Lake Forest property of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick, once valued at $7,000,000, was sold at auction to John Russell, Chicago lawyer, for $46,000, subject to a $160,366 62 tax lien.

Advice on Tips Featured in Sunday Ad

How much of a tip should you give your waiter? Do you feel you may be giving too little—or too much?

The answer to the perplexing problem of tipping and how much to give may be found in the article, "Is 10 Per Cent the Right Tip?" to be published in next Sunday's American Weekly, magazine distributed with the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

"Beggars in Mink," also in next Sunday's American Weekly, is a startling expose of fake charity rackets and the suave swindlers who pose as volunteers for non-existent charity organizations and then pocket the contributions.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—Our corn grows well, but produces very few ears. We plant in drills 8 inches apart.

A—This looks like too thick planting. Corn planted in drills should be spaced at least 1 foot apart. Crowding keeps out light and seems to prevent setting of ears.

Q—Can paper pots be used to grows house plants in?

A—Paper pots made from waterproof paper can be used as a temporary container. They are made mainly for growing plants that are only held in the pot for from 5 to 6 weeks. For permanent containers for house plants, use a glazed pot. These give good results.

Q—Will cucumbers and melons cross if planted together.?

A—No. These two species do not cross. Poor flavor in melons is due to poor growing conditions and individual variation of fruits.

Q—How much fruit can we expect from 2 dozen tomato plants?

A—An average yield from 2 dozen plants should be about 150-175 pounds.

Q—Have used rotenene on bean beetles, but get no results.

A—If material is fresh, it should be effective. Rotenene kills slowly. Use only fresh dust.

Q—How many plants should be left in each hill of pickling cucumbers?

A—Not over four, if planted 4 feet apart.

New Tax Bill Would Exempt 19,000,000

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Removal of 19,000,000 low income persons from the tax rolls and at total cut of $9,700,000,000 in personal income levies was proposed in a bill introduced today by Rep. Gearhart (R.) of California.

To make up part of the revenue loss the legislation calls for a 10 per cent manufactruers' excise tax.

The levy would apply to the manufacturers' selling prices of fully processed goods, with food and shelter items exempted. He estimated such a levy would yield $6,400,000,000.

A ceiling of 50 per cent on the rate any income might be taxed would e set y the bill. The highest incomes now are taxed as high as 86.5 per cent.

Gearhart's bill would raise individual exemption for single persons from $500 up to $1000, an for dmarried couples from $1000 to $2000, with acontinuation of the $500 exemption for dependents.

The bill would repeal all retail excises, such as those of furs, jewelry, cosmetics and luggage, and would eliminate the levy on transportation of property. It proposes to reduce sharply the excises on telephone and telegraph service.

LOST AND FOUND

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (AP) — Two-year-old Ronald Dove enjoyed being lost.

The youngster was picked up by police last night, and as he sat in the backseat of a radio car smiling and waving to bystanders, the loudspeaker blared:

"We have a lost child, a boy, with blond hair and blue eyes, apparently about 2 years old, weighing . . ."

A woman dashed out of a house.

"Policemen!" she shouted, "that's my Ronald."

Old Railroader's Ashes Strewn by Line's Roadbed

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—A wisp of gray powder settling along the roadbed in the wake of a speeding passenger train fulfilled a former railroad man's desire to remain close to the life he had loved.

When Charles M. Faupel, retired inspector of special agents for the Chicago and North Western, died July 14, he asked to have his body cremated and the ashes distributed along the road's right of way.

What a Difference Victory Makes in B's Locker Room

By AUSTEN LAKE

CHICAGO, July 24—Ah! There's good news today! Music is heard again in the Braves' locker room! A portable victrola blurted the raucous strains of "Heartbreak." But there was no heartbreak there. The Braves had won a rousing ball game, 12 to 4. The world was good! The sun shone! And the Braves chatted noisily about their base hits—15 of 'em. It was like a boys' school after winning the annual objective game with fish fry high.

What a difference a winning game makes! For Tuesday evening the clubhouse was silent as a mortuary. No music! No talk about the games! The men conversed in hushed whispers. They sneaked apologetically into the shower room. They towelled and dressed with a guilty air and crept off into the late afternoon like kids caught robbing the family wine closet.

"Most uncertain business in the world," chortled Johnny Cooney happily. "Tuesday we get top pitching, a handful of hits and only two runs in a double-header. Today we don't need any pitching. After that seven-run first inning, I could've gone out and held 'em with my rheumatic shoulder."

Fact is that Southworth, after the first 15 minutes of play and before Sain came to bat (Ed. note—The Braves had already scored seven runs) was toying with the notion to switch starting pitchers, bench Sain and substitute Big Ed Wright, his bullpen maestro. That would have held Sain for today's finale with the Cubs, sent Spahn against the Cardinals tomorrow night, Voiselle on Saturday, Sain again Sunday and Spahn once more Monday. It would have eliminated the uncertainty of Red Barrett and placed his ace, king, queen in his pitching suit.

BUT BILLY SHRUGGED temptation off. He'd seen, he said, too many managers out-smart themselves and too many early leads washed away. "Besides," said he sagely, "you always have to repay what you borrow, whether in baseball or banks. Nature is a loan shark and, if I'd borrowed on my best pitching for St. Louis, I might go bankrupt later in Cincinnati and Pittsburgh."

For the first time, so I am told by Chicago writers, there was a low and ominous growl in the thinly populated Cubs' stands and directly at Manager Cholly Grimm, whose popularity has hitherto been unchallenged. As Cholly waddled out with his duck walk to call halt after Hank Wyse was hit by the first two Braves' batters (Holmes and Hopp) and passed the third (Rowell), a strong growl rolled after him. "Waja start the bum for anyway," bawled a brass voice while others yammered "Ya-Ya-Ya."

Yet Cholly's only post-game comment was "Yesterday's hero, today's bum," noting that nothing succeeds like success or fails like failure.

Yet several of the Chicago ball authors are campaigning for his balding scalp and he may feel the tomahawk before next April. A lot of managerial heads are going to tumble next winter, so the augury goes, among them Cholly's Lou Boudreau's at Cleveland, Ben Chapman's at Philadelphia, Steve O'Neil's at Detroit, Joe Cronin's at Boston, Billy Herman at Pittsburgh, Eddie Dyer at St. Louis (if the Cards don't win), Ted Lyons at Chicago. Those are the eligibles among the sacrificial goats who may be laid on the altar of public exasperation.

AFTER BOB ELLIOTT walloped relief pitcher Emil Kush's first toss in the first inning for his first grand slam home run of his major league career—and it was a whizzeroo—the 15,000 Chicagoans went into a disgruntled pout. The partisan crowd quit watching the game and devoted attention to other oddities, like the inebriate, much better for his drams, who teetered on a box rail, miraculously keping his bandy-legged balance till a limb of the law hauled him down.

The crowd laughed. A stout cop chased a bevy of raggedy kids along the left field runway. The crowd laughed. A spectator left a portion of his pants on a chair arm while scrambling for a foul ball. The crowd laughed. Meanwhile, the Braves' score swelled from 7 to 8 to 12, while the pigeons dozed on the rafters, the national flag hung limp on its centerfield pole and smudges of smoke from distant factories stood up like dark feathers.

Yet, when, in the Cubs' eighth, Scheffing, Aberson, Dallessandro, Sturgeon and Merullo strung together five hits for three runs, you'd have thought that Congress had quit collecting taxes. Hope, however feeble, still flickered in the crowd's breast. Also a threat, however remote, is always a menace to Billy Southworth, who popped out on the lip of his trench and semaphored for Ed Wright to get busy oiling his elbow.

"I take nothing for granted," grunted Billy afterward, "not even a nine run, seventh inning lead." That's what I call caution!

This writer thought he had seen everything on the ball field. But something new was added in the Braves' eighth. A high foul drifted over catcher Clyde McCullough's head and he dashed toward the backstop. So did Umpire Jocko Conlan. Somehow the pair got tangled in a football scrimmage, with McCullough butting and clawing and Conlan snatching him by the slack of his shirt and wrestling him to a standstill. It was the first time that I have ever seen an umpire grab a player in anger—and Jocko was mad clean through.

Afterward Conlan told me: "He wasn't trying for the catch, which was way off line. He just wanted to make me look bad before the crowd. I didn't like the act."

The crowd was highly incensed, yet McCullough has the reputation of being that kind of tricky character.

So, today it's Spahn, Braves' prizeman who was cuffed so vigorously last Friday. "He wasn't coming through with his arm delivery," says Sothworth, who has had his brightest pupil learning the copy book maxim "I must follow through on each pitch" 50 times a day. Billy will hear his recitation this afternoon.

Sox Rough on Fans' Hearts; Galehouse Pitches Finale

By FRED HOEY

American League baseball was expected to return to normalcy at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Fenway Park when the Red Sox and White Sox closed out their series. Toward this end, Joe Cronin reached in his uncertain pitching bag and came up with Dennie Galehouse while Ted Lyons selected Frank "Lefty" Papish for his flinger.

Not in a long time have local fans witnessed a more tense battle than furnished last night when the Red Sox downed the White Sox, 8-7, in 14 innings of the most exciting and thrilling baseball seen at Fenway Park in a long time.

It was no game for one suffering from high blood pressure. From start to finish it was highly tense with both managers going to extremes in their jockeying to get the winning result. This long battle consumed 3 hours and 25 minutes, finishing at 12:15.

With all its exciting moments, there was considerable bad baseball mixed in with the better brand to give the game a rich balance for the 31,379 fans.

How the Red Sox put over the big run in the 14th is a story in itself. Bobby Doerr had opened the inning with a single to center. He later stole second. DiMaggio, whose double tied up the game in the ninth, grounded out. Then came some strategy by Ted Lyons. He ordered both Jake Jones and Birdie Tebbetts purposely passed, filling the bases. Up came Don Gutteridge to bat for Tex Hughson with only one out. On the first pitch Don laid a bunt between the pitcher's box and first and Doerr scored the winning run on the squeeze.

Sam Dente came up with two great plays. In the 12th, he started an around - the - horn double play that was a honey. His crowning play came in the 13th when Baker hit a foul directly over the Chicago dugout steps. He rushed over and grabbed the hand rail for balance, reached over backhand and grabbed the foul for the out.

In the second inning, Johnny Pesky made a marvellous play on Joe Haynes when he dashed far to his right and deep to grab the bounder and his long throw beat Joe to first.

Great plays followed each other so rapidly that it was hard to keep up with them.

The White Sox also contributed sparkling fielding plays, especially the one by Philley in center field when he raced back to the concrete wall in dead center to pull down Doerr's tremendous fly.

On the batting side, the White Sox took all the honors with 15 hits against 11 for the locals.

DiMaggio's two doubles scored vital runs. Pesky came up with three singles and two walks which gives seven hits in two games. Ted Williams was purposely walked twice and reached twice on errors. He failed to hit all night. Jones came up with a two-run single early in the game. Doerr made a double and a single and his work afield was magnificent. Bobby's crowning feature was his steal of second in the 14th. That was the groundwork for the winning run.

On the other hand, Rudy York came back to haunt us. In the third, he hit his No. 9 homer In the 11th with one on, he caught hold of one and it started sailing for the screen along the foul line. Just before it reached there the wind came to Boston's rescue and blew the ball foul by mere inches.

The Red Sox started with Dave Ferriss and followed with Harry Dorish and Tex Hughson. Chicago used Joe Haynes, Earl Harrist, Thorny Lee and Earl Caldwell, the 42-year-old right-hander.

Lee was magnificent for Chicago, especially in the 12th when he extricated himself with two on and only one down. It was clutch pitching of the soundest and most courageous type. Even partisan Boston fans gave the veteran southpaw a rousing ovation for this grand show.

It was good to see General Manager Eddie Collins and Mrs. Collins at the game. They sat in a box to the left of the Red Sox dug-out. First to greet Eddie was Johnny Orlando followed by Williams. Eddie discovered 'Tall Ted' . . . The Red Sox are happy to see how well Johnny Lazor is going for the Portland, Ore., team of the Coast League. Johnny is hitting fifth with .339 . . . Ted Lyons, Chicago pilot, pitched part time batting practice for his team . . . It came as a surprise to see Mickey Harris doing the same in Boston batting drill . . . Colors were made at 8:15 with three slick Marines doing the honors . . . Prior to this ceremony the American League pennant was removed from the flagpole, a grim reminder of better days. But the pennant flag was restored to the pole top following the making of the colors.

The players are all for Lou Boudreau's plane of separate outfield work. Many casualties have developed because of this double practise at the same time . . . Johnny Beazely, the Braves pitcher, was a visitor to the press box. Johnny is taking arm treatment from a local specialist

Hearst Junior Draw Fair to Players, Clubs

By BILL GRIMES

One of the most important details concerning a golf championship is the match play draw. Usually the powers that be use the numerical system or seed four or six and toss in the other qualifier without a thought to club affiliations.

But there isn't any excuse for players from the same club meeting in the first round of a state or sectional championship.

It requires many hours of careful study to compile a fair draw. Too many championships have been ruined because the "brass" didn't devote enough time to preparing draws.

Of course, the best draw is seeded from top to bottom. But unless the moguls know the field, it would be foolhardy to adopt such a system.

The Hearst New England Junior Championship draw is seeded. The four medalists are in different quarters. So are the four United Shoe, New Bedford, Quincy and Worcester boys who will play in the first round next Monday at Woodland. The three Springfield representatives were split and two juniors from Rhode Island are also in opposite halves of the draw.

After seeding the medalists, Ken Campbell of Wollaston, Bernie Fauteux of New Bedford, Jackie Nies of United Shoe and Don Koenig of Putnam, Ct., Paul Kendrick, Charlie Adams and Joe Carson, who hail from Quincy, were put in separate quarters, as were Tom Mahan, Jr., Bill Palm and Dick Costello of United Shoe, Ralph Jenkins, Earl Chase and Curtis Bates of New Bedford, and the four Worcesterites, Dick Marrone, Tom Hovey, Herb Soderman and Paul Harney, received the same consideration.

Bob "Bucky" Marchese, Country Club of Springfield Bill Roberts of The Orchards, and Joe Grochmal of Springfield Memorial are in different quarters, and Paul Butler of Pawtucket, the Rhode Island junior champion, and little Danny Magiera of W. Warwick, R. I., cannot meet until the finals.

Under the Hearst system, none of the United Shoe, Quincy, Worcester or New Bedford boys can meet until the semi-finals.

The Hearst match play draw and starting time will be published in Saturday's Boston Evening American and this week's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Kiner Cuts Mize's Home Run Lead

Ralph Kiner, who represents one of the few bright spots in Pittsburgh's dismal doings this season, today had realized one of his three main ambitions and stood a fairly good chance to achieve the other two, according to the Associated Press.

The hard-hitting Bucco outfielder, who during spring training announced he was out to lead the National League in home runs and runs batted in as well as set a new Pirate homer mark, walloped his 24th and 25th four bagger of the campaign last night to break the Pittsburgh record held jointly by himself and Johnny Rizzo. Rizzo had smashed 23 round-trippers in 1938 and Ralph duplicated the feat last year.

Kiner now is only three homers behind Johnny Mize of the Giants who leads both majors with 28. He also is in the running for RBI honors, having sent 67 runners over the plate to rank fourth behind New York's trio of Willard Marshall (75), Mize (73) and Walker Cooper (71).

The 24-year-old sophomore slugger from Santa Rita, New Mexico, who paced the league's homer hitters last year, is especially determined to retain his home run laurels. He deeply resents the unfair tag of "accidental champion" some writers have hung on him because Mize, who finished with 22, one under Kiner's total, was sidelined for nearly two months of the season with a fractured wrist and toe. He is out to prove that last year was no fluke.

Ralph batted in four runs last night to lead the Pirates to a 6-2 victory over the Phillies.

Signs of an impending stretch fight for the National League flag between Brooklyn and St. Louis became more evident when both the Dodgers and Cardinals won their games, the Dodgers defeating the Reds at Cincinnati, 5-2, and the Cards nipping the Giants in St. Louis, 6-5.

Tied at 2-2 at the end of seven innings, the Brooks got out front when Eddie Miksis singled in Carl Furillo in the eighth inning. They added two more in the ninth when Dixie Walker, who drove in one of the Dodgers' two first-inning runs, doubled home two more.

The "never say die" Cardinals rallied for four runs in the bottom half of the ninth to come from behind and nip the Giants. In whipping the New Yorkers for the eighth time in their last 10 meetings, the Cards shoved the Giants into third place and advanced to within a half game of the berth.

Lanky Ellis Kinder allowed only six hits and Willard Brown cracked four singles in five times at bat to lead the last place St. Louis Browns to an 8-2 victory over the American League leading Yankees at the Yankee Stadium.

Detroit lost a fine opportunity to whittle a game off the Yankees' 10½-game margin when they were shut out by Washington, 5-0. Rae Scarborough scattered six hits for his third win. Freddy Hutchinson, who snapped the Yankees' 19-game winning streak last Friday, was banged for eight hits to suffer his fourth defeat. He has won eight.

A three-run homer by Eddie Joost in the sixth inning provided the Athletics with a 6-3 victory over Cleveland in a night game at Philadelphia. In a battle between two no-run, no-hit pitchers, Dick Fowler bested Don Black to gain his seventh win.

BRAVES SEEK NEW TRAINING SITE

MIAMI, July 24 (INS)—A member of the Boston Braves' staff was touring Florida today reportedly making a survel to select a new spring training site for the National League club.

The Braves recently announced they no longer will hold their spring conditioning workouts in Ft. Lauderdale, but will seek another training site in Florida.

Al Oliver, of the Braves, was in Miami yesterday after a visit to several points on the Florida West Coast.

The Braves quit Ft. Lauderdale after protesting that accomodations for both housing and training were not satisfactory there.

Hogan Out to Regain Vardon Cup Rating

COLUMBUS, O., July 24 (AP)—Little Ben Hogan, the year's No. 1 money winner, lost first place in the Vardon Cup ratings by passing up the Canadian Open to play a few exhibitions—but he has a chance to scoot back into the lead in the $10,000 Columbus Open this weekend.

As of now, Ed (Porky) Oliver is the No. 1 man in the low-strokes-per-round competition in which the guy with the best average gets the Vardon trophy at the end of the year.

Porky, for 48 rounds of tournament play, has used up 3356 strokes for an average just a mite under 69.92. Hogan, for 52 rounds, has fired 3635 shots for a 69.93 mark, just one-hundredth of a point back of Oliver.

Until the Canadian open, Oliver had a 70.13 rating for second place, but he skipped around the little fellow with his 270 for runner-up laurels in the Dominion event.

Hogan was on hand, but Oliver was missing, as the field of some 108 practiced over at the country club yesterday, but the Porky one was among the entrants and expected to be on hand for the 72-hole medal chase.

Bobby Locke, the South African winner of six of 11 tournaments this summer, and favorite in the Capital City Open, toured the course in 71 and slacks—not his usual plus fours—yesterday. He was a stroke off the pace set by national open champion Lew Worsham and amateur Frankie Stranahan of Toledo, but matched former open champion Lawson Little and Billy Burke, both of Cleveland.

A pro-amateur event was on today's tournament slate, with the money shooters doing the heavy work and country club members just going along for the ride.

With the Canadian Open scores, except for Oliver's, not figured in, here's how the Vernon race stacks up at present:

	Rounds	Strokes	Av'ge
Ed (Porky) Oliver	48	3356	69.92

Rock Set For Aug. 11 Opening

SALEM, N. H., July 24—Maybe news travels slowly up this way. Or, perhaps, he pays no never-mind to what he reads and hears.

In any case, Lou Smith, executive director of Rockingham Park, doesn't go along with the notion, held in some quarters, that a depression is nigh, if not at hand.

He dissents in many ways, but most eloquently in the medium that matters—he's laying cash-money on the line and betting that the dealers in doom are wrong once again.

In brief, it's a case of "doors open for business, as usual."

As was the case a year ago, the Old Rock will offer no purse worth less than $2200; the daily average will approximate $21,000 and the total for the 18-day meeting has been set at about $375,000.

The popular rural track's 15th summer session will get under way Monday, August 11, and come to a close Saturday, August 30.

All indications are that it will be a busy one and a banner one.

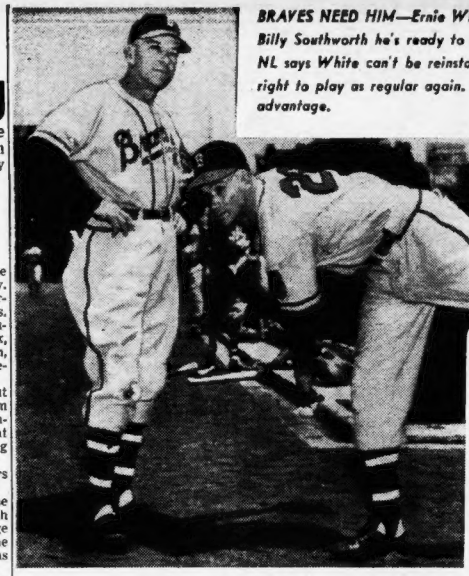
There will be an abundance of good horses. Best illustration of this lies in the fact that not one of the major New England tracks has stalls enough to house the record number campaigning in this section, and that the Rock's 1250 reservations long since have been allotted.

The mile oval, completely rebuilt a year ago, has been resurfaced and improved in a variety of ways.

A new and larger tote board will be easier on the vision. The monitoring rooms have been overhauled to insure a speedup in pari-mutuel handle.

NEVES RIDES 4 WINNERS

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 24 (AP)—Jockey Ralph Neves rode four winners at the Hollywood Park race track yesterday. He was up on Toreador Jo, $12.50, in the second race; Tie Score, $12, in the sixth, Winsir, $7.50, in the seventh, and Plucky Chat $6.90 in the eighth.



BRAVES NEED HIM—Ernie White, Braves coach, shows Manager Billy Southworth he's ready to hurl for the Tribe. Ford Frick of NL says White can't be reinstated, but many experts say he has right to play as regular again. Braves could use White to good advantage.

Surf Casters Hitting Bass At Crane's Beach, Ipswich

By "TAP" GOODENOUGH

Surf casters have been scoring on stripers at stretches of Crane's Beach, Ipswich, recently, a popular spot for those who enjoy wading waistdeep into the water, clad in bathing trunks. Many fish are being beached in the section between the mouths of the Essex and Ipswich rivers, although there are many other holes offshore in which the bass are lurking. Such sites are usually kept a secret by local anglers.

Richard Stanley of Revere tied into a 35-pound striper casting from the beach and using an Atom plug. His catch measured 43 inches in length with a 23¾-inch girth. Mr. Stanley decided not to eat his prize, but is having it mounted at Ed Shaw's shop, Malden . . . We have discovered that numerous fishermen like to preserve the examples of their salt-water skill in this manner.

While trying his luck at Crane's Beach one day, a friend tells us that he saw a novice angler, complete with brand new rod, reel, and other gear, essay a rather feeble cast. On the second throw, he connected with a striper, and finally managed to beach the fish, which proved to weigh 40 pounds. This shows that beginners, as well as experts, can win some of the prizes offered in the various Derbies, now at hand.

Coastal Warden Orin Arlin, who is adept with both rod and gun, informs us that tuna, ranging up to 550 pounds, are being caught in Ipswich Bay. Capt. Al Kezar of Plum Island has ironed more than 20 of the big bluefins this season.

ANGLING ANGLES: Harry J. Reardon, Jr., of Gloucester sends word that the first week of the Cape Ann Sportsman's Club Derby was very successful, with almost 200 entrants swinging into action . . . Top catch was the 28-pound, 13-ounce bass hooked by William S. Burke, Gloucester, who was awarded the weekly prize of merchandise . . . Thirty-two fish were weighed in during the week, many of the catches coming from the Crane's Beach area . . . This fishing contest will continue until Sept. 15, and entries are always welcome. They may be sent to the Cape Ann Sportsman's Club, Gloucester.

Ben Levias, the "swim master," dropped in to say that good fishing has been reported at Belgrade Lakes, Maine, where the salmon and lake trout are hitting with enthusiasm . . . Dickie Nelson, 12-year-old West Medford angler, has "found nearby Horn Pond, Woburn, a veritable 'hot spot'

VEECK UNDER KNIFE

CLEVELAND, July 24 (INS)—A second operation will be performed today on the right leg of Bill Veeck, Cleveland Indians president.

Originally set for yesterday, the operation to remove about two inches of the stump of his amputated limb was postponed.

Veeck said he expects to be confined to Cleveland Cline Hospital about two weeks.

Hartford Scribe Raps Braves

HARTFORD, Ct., July 24 (AP)—Bill Lee, Hartford Courant sports editor, today wrote, "If the citizens of Hartford who like baseball were to boycott the Chiefs (Hartford's entry in the Class A Eastern Baseball League), it would be just what the Boston Braves organization deserves."

Lee, writing in his column, continued, "Until evidence to the contrary is offered, baseball fans here must believe that they have been inexcusably mis treated by the Boston organization.

"The baseball fans of Hartford have a right to demand some sort of explanation why the Chiefs have been abandoned and given up as a lost cause while Evansville, a Boston farm club of lower classification than Hartford, gets players that should be sent here.

"Unless Lou Perini, the head man; John Quinn, general manager, or Harry Jenkins, the director of minor league farm clubs, has some explanation for the machinations that have made Hartford the whipping boy of the entire wheel, the people who support baseball in this city have every reason to wish that the Boston organization will get out of Hartford and sell their franchise here to a major league team that can do a better job.

"The Braves appear to be much to busy trying to win the National League pennant and get Evansville into the Three-I League playoffs to pay much attention to the baseball troubles of Hartford."

The Chiefs currently are in sixth place, 16 games behind the top-place Utica club.

Sandlot Final Next Tuesday

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

Rabbit Maranville, director of the New York sector of the Hearst Sandlot program, sends word that his New York team is now pretty well formed for the National final at the Polo Grounds, Aug. 13.

The New England final will be held at Fenway Park next Tuesday afternoon following a Cleveland-Red Sox contest. Two boys, who will be named at the conclusion of the game will be sent to New York to play on the United States team against Maranville's New Yorkers.

Claude Davidson, president of the New England League, has the difficult task of dividing the 30 New England players into two separate teams.

Claude will team with Joe Cronin, Lou Boudreau and Bill Barrett on the day of the N. E. finals in naming the N. E. winners. They will make their announcement at a dinner for the squad following the game at the Hotel Somerset.

Special arrangements have been made with officials at Fenway Park that the gates be thrown open to Sandlot fans after the seventh inning of the Red Sox-Cleveland game.

There will be no admission at that time.

Joyce Runs Mile In Mayor's Charity Meet at Wigwam

Carl Joyce, National Junior 1000-yard titleholder of the High School of Commerce, will race in a special invitation mile as part of the Mayor's charity field day program at Braves Field tonight.

Joyce, selected this week by Dan Ferris, AAU president, for Look Magazine's All-American high school track team, won the 1000-yard title indoors last winter in 2:19.6, and also set a N. E. interscholastic record for the half-mile of 1:58.8. Joyce is also recorded at 4:20 for the mile. This time was set after Dean Pieper of Clinton, Iowa, was picked by Ferris for the mile honors, with a time of 4:21.8.

Racing against the titleholder tonight will be Billy Fitzgerald of Amscan Club, Sandy Patterson of Belmont, Alan Carlson of Braintree, and Anthony Spienga, N. E. CYO champion.

Other sports feature will be a ball game between the Dick Casey Club, seven-time winner of the Park League pennant and the Boston Colored Giants, New England's most famed semi-pro club.

Stymie Sure Starter in Mass. 'Cap

By DAVE WILSON

With the complete success of the 1947 Massachusetts Handicap assured now that the brick-thatched Hirsch Jacobs has definitely decided to ship his lady's fabulously wealthy Stymie to Suffolk Downs for a whirl at Wednesday's 50-grand purse, Racing Secretary John P. Turner is now devoting his talents to lining up a creditable field of thoroughbreds to oppose the world's largest money-winning champion.

Just how many thoroughbreds will oppose the sway-backed son of Equestrian is a matter of conjecture. Nominees for the mile and a furlong race include most of the better handicap stars in training. The majority of these thoroughbreds, including Polynesian, are also eligible for Saturday's $25,000 Monmouth Park Handicap. It can be expected that some will welcome the chance to duck the champion and run in the New Jersey Stake.

Turner, up to a late hour yesterday, and heard nothing in regard to the status of Polynesian as a starter.

Turner, in all probability, bases hopes of Polynesian on the fact that this one is of the front-running type and that the distance of the local 50 grander, which is a furlong shorter than the Monmouth race, would suit him better.

Stymie, who was claimed for $1500, has now won the staggering sum of $678,510. If he picks up the winning purse in the Massachusetts, his earnings will soar close to the $725,000 mark.

The Massachusetts will mark the first time that Stymie has ever raced in New England. Known as a poor shipper, the big chestnut has been raced for the most part in New York. Decision of Jacobs to send the great horse to Boston for this race is indicative of his desire to keep Stymie at the top of the fight with Assault and Armed for the world money winning honors.

Stymie will be shipped with a pony, and Hirsch Jacobs himself will be waiting his arrival at Suffolk Downs to supervise his final workouts.

Conn McCreary, who rode Stymie to his smashing victory in the Gold Cup, will again have the mount in the Suffolk Downs race.

'Learn to Swim' Class Popular

The "Learn to Swim" classes at Greater Boston locations are continuing to prove highly successful. The program conducted by the Red Cross and the Humane Society through the co-operation of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser is the best in recent years.

Alex Houston, Joe Baldwin and Johnnie Temple, three of the foremost swimming names in New England, have been working in co-operation with Ben Levias, Hearst swim leader.

Classes at Houghton's Pond, Milton, will continue until Saturday afternoon. Those at Green Harbor also will be completed Saturday.

The swim professors hold beginner's classes from 10 a. m. to noon and life saving classes from 2-4 in the afternoon daily.

This program is free to all. There are no age limits.

The next two locations on the "Learn to Swim" tour are scheduled for Carson Beach, South Boston, and at Sampson's Pond, South Carver. The swim professors will be at Carson Beach and Sampson's Pond from July 28 to August 8.

Unscheduled Flight—Overcome by fatigue as he was loading the forward baggage compartment of a TWA liner at Chicago airport, David Renning, 19, of that city, fell asleep on the suitcases and bags. He awoke to find the plane en route to New York. The weather temperature was only a few degrees above zero when the shivering "stowaway" made his presence known. He returns (at right) in regular passenger compartment.

Crippled Artist—Confined to a wheelchair for the past eight years, Irene Reid, 62, a Navy nurse of World War I, who was stricken with arthritis in 1919, whiles away her time in Birmingham Veterans Hospital, Van Nuys, Cal., by painting in oils. Although she can only move two fingers, the plucky invalid has produced some brilliant paintings. Nurse Beulah Bodener holds two of Miss Reid's products.
